Main Section Arrives 130 Miles From Capital of Paraguay.

By the Associated Press.
BUENOS AIRES, March 2.—The United States Army Good Will flyers have arrived at Corrientes on the Parana River, near the Paraguay border.

By the Associated Press.
BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, March 2.—The main section of the good will flying expedition, reduced to two planes by Saturday's fatal crash in which Capt. Clinton F. Woolsey and Lieut. John W. Bennett were killed, left at 6:25 a. m. today for Asuncion, Paraguay.

De Pinedo Arrives in Buenos Aires After Flight From Brazil.
By the Associated Press.
BUENOS AIRES, March 2.—Commander Francisco de Pinedo arrived here at 12:30 p. m. today. The Italian aviator had left Porto Alegre, Brazil, at 6:15 o'clock this morning, continuing his four-continent flight from Italy.

De Pinedo received a noisy welcome when he arrived. Bombs were exploded by the newspapers and the steamships in the harbor sounded their whistles. Thousands of persons, from vantage points on the roofs, watched the evolution of the seaplane before it descended.

Ten seaplanes of the Argentine navy met the aviator and accompanied him to the harbor, where he alighted amid the acclamations of thousands who had gathered along the waterfront and around the landing stage.

De Pinedo and his companions received a continuous ovation as they rode in an automobile to the Government house, where they were received by President de Alvear.

LISBON, Portugal, March 2.—Maj. Sirimonte Belros, Portuguese aviator, who flew from Lisbon to Macao in 1924, hopped off here at 2 o'clock this afternoon on an attempt to fly around the world in 90 days. He is using a seaplane of 450 horsepower.

JUDGE ADMITS CONFESSIONS IN SCHOU MURDER

Overrules Attorneys for Leonard Yeager and Lets Jury Hear the Written and Oral Admissions.

STATE DEMANDING DEATH PENALTY

Mistreatment by East St. Louis Police and Fear of Further Abuse Charged by Accused Man.

Leonard Yeager's written and oral confessions that he fired the shot which caused the death of George Schou, when Schou got in his way as he and a companion were committing a holdup, Nov. 17 last, were admitted in Yeager's trial for murder. The State is demanding the death penalty.

Yeager's written confession, offered as having been made and signed at Police Headquarters, is in part:

"I am 29 years old, and live at 902 St. Clair avenue, East St. Louis, Sunday, Nov. 14, I first met Maurine Birmingham at a house at 411 1/2 North Fifth street, East St. Louis. We met the three days following, and the night of Wednesday, the seventeenth, we left at 7:30 in a Chrysler sedan and drove over the Free Bridge to St. Louis.

"Birmingham gave me a nickel-plated .38-caliber Marlin revolver, with five loaded cartridges. He had a .38 Colt's, loaded, too. We drove to a recreation parlor near Kingshighway and Delmar to see a man he knew. We did not find the man and we left and drove to a beer joint, on the second floor. I don't know the address, and had some drinks. While there, we traded revolvers. I taking the Colt's and Birmingham taking the Marlin.

"We then drove to a place owned by Frank Dougherty at Kingshighway and Manchester (Swedish-American Hall, scene of the murder). We parked the car in front and went in.

Held Up Bartender.
"Birmingham, Bartender Frank (Dougherty) and the bartender said Frank was out. Then Birmingham called the bartender back, and in a few seconds the bartender came up, with Birmingham behind him. Birmingham had his revolver in his hand, and the bartender had both hands in the air.

"Birmingham said, 'We're going to take the joint.' When this came, I was standing at the bar. I pulled my revolver out of my coat pocket and covered five or six men who were in the place and made them kneel on the floor.

"He told me to get the dough out of the cash register. I don't know the exact amount I got. I came from behind the bar and searched the men and took money from each.

"About this time, a man who was about 50 years old (Basham was 62) came out of the basement and saw the place was being held up. I was started for a side door. I was about 10 feet from him, when I did shoot. Then Birmingham grabbed me by the arm and said, 'Let's get out of here!' and we went out and got in the Chrysler. We drove back to East St. Louis, and on the way I gave Birmingham the money. At the house on Fifth street, we spread it on the table and divided it. I don't know how much I got."

Mistreatment Is Charged.
Judge Percy's decision to admit the confession as evidence was made after Yeager, in the jury's absence, had made a statement to the judge, charging that he was mistreated by the East St. Louis police after his arrest early Nov. 17. He did not charge that the St. Louis police mistreated him, but said the police had mistreated him at East St. Louis made him apprehensive of further abuse, and that for this reason he signed the confession, which he said he was not permitted to read.

When cross-questioned in the hearing before the judge, without the presence of the jury, Yeager admitted first that he crossed the Free Bridge with Birmingham on the night of Nov. 17, and later he admitted he was at Swedish-American Hall, where, he said, he heard a shot, but did not fire it himself. He would not admit in so many words that he had taken part in a holdup.

The admission made by Yeager in the court's hearing appeared to make it impossible for him to offer an alibi later.

Yeager said in the course of this questioning that he had known Birmingham, but not by that name, as Birmingham had professed to be Bernie Shelton, one of the East side Shelton gang, recently convicted of the Collinsville mail robbery and now in Leavenworth prison.

Denies Truth of Confession.
His charge of mistreatment by the East side police was directed chiefly against Detective Sergeant Thomas O'Brien, whom he accused of sitting on his chest and stomach and torturing him in the endeavor to make him "tell the truth." He said O'Brien told him

$1,000,000 CARGO OF WHISKY SEIZED

Canadian Ship Taken by U. S. Coast Guards 300 Miles Off San Francisco.

By the Associated Press.
SAN FRANCISCO, March 2.—The freighter, Federalist, was seized yesterday 300 miles off San Francisco with upwards of $1,000,000 worth of Scotch whisky aboard.

Whether the coast guard guns were used to overcome resistance by the Federalist, being boarded was not made known in the meager radio dispatches received here today of the capture, but the guardmen were authorized to open fire on her. The ship is being conveyed to San Francisco for four copies of boats' "The freighter's captain, S. S. Stone, and his crew were put under arrest and the ship, in charge of a prize crew, will arrive tomorrow.

The Federalist, one of a fleet owned by the Consolidated Exporters Inc., of Canada, which recently figured in smuggling investigations by both the American and Canadian Governments, was watched by coast guards since Feb. 22, when, on sailing from Vancouver, B. C., she changed her registry from British to Panamanian. At the time she was reported heading for Tahiti.

The coast guard cutter Algonquin was sent to follow the Federal ship, and later the cutters Chokila, Shawnee and Smith were sent from there to aid.

Demands Bar to Alcohol Poisoning.
By the Associated Press.
ALBANY, N. Y., March 2.—The State Senate adopted today, 30 to 21, the resolution already approved in the House, memorializing Congress to forbid the poisoning of denatured alcohol as a means of preventing its diversion to bootleg channels.

He would be treated in the same manner in St. Louis if he did not continue to "tell the truth." For that reason, Yeager said, he made the same admissions in St. Louis, though no threats of mistreatment were made. He said his admissions were not true.

Sergeant O'Brien and other East St. Louis police officials testified, denying the charge of mistreatment. St. Louis police officials said of the circumstances of the confession, and the Court ruled that both the signed confession, and the statements of policemen as to the prisoner's oral admissions, would be competent as evidence.

The jury was then called in and heard the testimony of the police witnesses, O'Brien first. He said he arrested Birmingham on a street corner, after having been notified by the St. Louis police that Birmingham was wanted as a robbery suspect. Birmingham admitted the robbery, and gave him the name of Yeager, whose arrest followed. Yeager at first denied any knowledge of the crime, O'Brien said, but finally said he wished to "get it off his mind," and St. Louis detectives were summoned to hear his first confession.

Birmingham will be tried later on a murder charge, and the State will demand the death penalty. Three witnesses yesterday testified that Birmingham, on seeing Schou enter the place, ordered Yeager to "Get him," and that Yeager stepped to the door, fired, and returned with the smoking revolver in his hand.

The State expected to complete its case today. Yeager probably will testify in his own behalf tomorrow, and the case may go to the jury by tomorrow night.

JUDGE CAN'T GET SIDENER TO ACT IN BONDSMAN'S CASE

Frey, Last Fall, Furnished Evidence Louis Rose Had Made False Affidavit in Qualifying on Bond.

A striking illustration of the unlimited power of the Circuit Attorney to initiate or avoid criminal proceedings against persons suspected of law violation is pointed in the case of Louis Rose, professional bondsman, who was examined by Circuit Judge Frey in February, 1926, as having made a false affidavit setting forth his qualifications.

Judge Frey asked Circuit Attorney Sidener to present the charges against Rose to the grand jury at that time, but upon the bondsman's promise of good behavior, the Judge decided not to press for action. Then, last November, the Post-Dispatch disclosed that Rose had transferred all his property last August 21, to a man who had three $10,000 robbery bonds were forfeited against him in Circuit Court.

This transfer of property convinced Judge Frey that Rose should no longer be treated leniently and he asked Circuit Attorney Sidener to present the false affidavit case to the grand jury. It sent Sidener all the records in the case and offered to appear before the grand jury, but with this testimony readily available and a showing of guilt on the face of the record, the Circuit Attorney's office has for four months failed to act.

Sidener Won't Explain.
Circuit Attorney Sidener, when questioned by Post-Dispatch reporters, repeatedly refused to explain why he has refrained from prosecuting Rose. The Post-Dispatch has learned that members of the November grand jury discussed the case among themselves and demanded an explanation from the Circuit Attorney. A. J. Wilson, foreman of that grand jury, summoned L. J. Joel Wilson, First Assistant Circuit Attorney, and asked him to explain why the evidence against Rose had not been presented to the grand jury.

Wilson told Grant that Rose's physical condition had caused the Circuit Attorney's forbearance. When pressed for a reason why Sidener had not allowed the grand jury to decide whether the poor health of Rose would bar his prosecution, Wilson told the Post-Dispatch that the records in the case did not been presented, and ended the conference by saying:

"They are not in proper shape. We are getting them in shape." The last grand jury was overloaded with work in the concluding days of its term and did not further investigate the case.

Circuit Judge Frey has obtained the opinion of another legal authority to the effect that Rose's act in signing a false affidavit to obtain the release of Tony Guarino, robbery suspect, is perjury punishable under the felony statute with a penitentiary sentence. The Circuit Attorney's office has maintained that it was merely a misdemeanor.

Rose's Oath and the Facts.
Rose was warned by Judge Frey in the presence of Sidener, Feb. 2, 1926, to be careful to tell the truth before he made the affidavit. Rose swore that he owned a flat building at 2500 Washington avenue, a house at 2834 Washington boulevard, a lot at 6002 Olive Street terrace, St. Louis County, and a $15,000 equity in the Orpheum Hotel, 106 North Ninth street.

Checking on these statements, Judge Frey discovered that no such property as described by Rose in St. Louis County was listed in his name at Clayton; that he had transferred the Olive Street terrace lot to his sister. Rose had sworn that the Texas avenue property was unencumbered, whereas there was a mortgage of $4500 against it. He also had transferred the Washington boulevard property to his sister.

ter and he did not own any interest in the Orpheum Hotel. Judge Frey accordingly had the principal on the bond re-arrested and wrote on the back of Rose's bond, "Bond set aside as security has falsely stated his qualifications." The case, as Judge Frey pointed out in correspondence with the Circuit Attorney's office, was apparent on records easily available. Sidener has held the Judge's records on receipt, but has made no report to Judge Frey of the progress of his investigation, if any.

Never a Line at Window.
At no time during the day was there anything resembling a line at the refund window. Applicants appeared at intervals, but usually they came singly. Most of them were workers employed at nearby industrial plants or persons whose business took them into the neighborhood. Comparatively few came by street car, and if they did their journey was scarcely profitable in light of the 14 cents fare for their "round trip."

Refunds averaged only a little more than 20 cents and amounts paid ranged as low as 13. Only a few had more than 50 cents due. A few applicants were observed to arrive in automobiles and several boys said they had walked 10 blocks or more. They seemed to enjoy the thrill of making the street car company look over even if the amount in most cases was less than 40 cents.

Demand for Rapid Transit.
There was a diversity of opinion concerning street car service. Comments ranged from "utterly unbearable" to "better than the service you get in most other cities."

On one point, however, virtually all were agreed. This was that some kind of a rapid transit system must be worked out, whether under private ownership or municipal operation. If St. Louis is to stimulate the necessity of standing in the cold at transfer points would be the proper course.

L. J. Suder of 332 1/2 Piney avenue, a carpenter, said he thought he could get around to his job a "lot faster and make a lot more money" if he did not have to be waiting so long for street cars. "But I haven't got any automobile," he explained, "and all I can do is wait 'em out. I wish they would get some kind of faster service. I don't know anything about franchises and municipal ownership, but I know St. Louis needs some faster street cars."

St. Louis Straphangers Want Rapid Transit; They Oppose Long Term Franchise for U. R.

Thin Stream of Car Riders Trickle Past Pay-off Window for Refund Pennies—$150 Claimed in Day.

The straphangers had an opportunity to demand part of their money back yesterday, but only about 300 persons braved the snowstorm and slush to cash in their 1-cent refund slips at the United Railways Co. offices at Park avenue and Thirty-ninth street. At the close of the day approximately 15,000 slips had been cashed at the window, representing a refund of $150. About 8000 other slips were sent in by mail.

The refund slips, as is known, were those given upon demand to street car riders for the extra cent they paid during the 22-day period, ended yesterday, when 8 cents went into the fare boxes instead of 7. The refund will continue for 60 days, after which the slips will become void. Receipts will be redeemed by mail if the holder will inclose them with a note giving his address.

Mrs. A. B. Moore, 1468 Dodier street, thought municipal ownership or operation of street cars would bring some change for the better. "Then some kind of a rapid transit system could be accomplished without so much conflict," she said. "If they need an 8-cent fare or even a 10-cent fare, all right, but let's have more for our money."

"There isn't a big city in the United States with such slow and antiquated street car service as that in St. Louis," declared L. B. Fitch, a traveling salesman, who denounced the proposed long term franchise as utterly out of the question. "What chance would St. Louis ever have for a rapid transit system if it ties up for 30 years or so with a company that has done no more with its opportunities than the United Railways Co. has done?" he asked.

"Even the surface lines in Chicago and New York give better service and in both cities the vehicle traffic situation is much more serious than here."

Sympathies With Straphangers.
A woman teacher who declined to give her name journeyed to the office by street car. She came in with an air of exasperation.

"Here I have to pay 14 cents to collect refunds which should have been paid on my street car," she declared. "After packing you in like a sardine, they all but throw you off when they stop. They don't do it in San Francisco and Los Angeles and other large cities I have traveled in. And in those cities, too, they provide a good service for much less than an 8-cent fare. The prospect of a rapid transit system here seems to be small enough, but whatever else is done or not done, a long-term franchise should be avoided. It would mean condemning the poor straphangers to more years of tramping."

BUS LEGISLATION ASSURED
Senate Enacts Bill From Which Act Will Develop.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, March 2.—Engrossment in the Senate yesterday of the bus regulation and licensing bill provided the foundation for some sort of a bus measure at the session, though it is not probable the bill will be passed in the form in which it was engrossed.

Bus lines in St. Louis are placed under regulation by the Public Service Commission, but the licensing or taxing power is reserved to the city, thus placing bus lines in the same situation as the street railway company. Outside of St. Louis regulation also in the Public Service Commission, but a heavy license tax is imposed, to be apportioned to the counties and road districts according to the mileage traversed by the bus. The tax ranges from $60 a year for a seven-passenger bus to $1000 a year for a bus with a capacity of more than 24 passengers. The bill probably will pass the Senate in its present form, but is subject to amendment in the House. The measure finally passed may be expected to be the work of the Conference Committee of the Senate and House.

WOMAN CULT LEADER SOUGHT IN DEATH PLOT

Mrs. Rowan, Whose End of World Prediction Failed, Disappears After Attack.

By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, March 2.—Followers of Mrs. Margaret W. Rowan, religious leader and self-styled prophetess, who is being sought as a conspirator in an alleged murder plot, declared today they were no more able to explain her recent disappearance than the failure of her prophecy that the world would end two years ago.

A complaint charging Mrs. Rowan and two of her aids with conspiracy with intent to commit murder was issued yesterday as the result of an alleged attack upon Dr. Burt E. Fuller, leader of an opposing church faction. Dr. J. F. Balzer and Miss Mary A. Wade, arrested at the scene of the purported attack, were named in the same complaint.

Efforts to find Mrs. Rowan through members of her cult have been unavailing. Police reported she had disappeared from her home. The finding of her automobile, abandoned on the ocean highway near San Juan Capistrano, was described by the authorities as a ruse.

The conspiracy complaint was issued after Fuller reported he had been lured to a cabin in a tourist automobile camp, where he was beaten with a gas pipe and jabbed with a hypodermic needle. He identified Balzer and Miss Wade as his assailants and charged that the attack was the result of his threats to "expose" the activities of Mrs. Rowan and her followers.

Police declared both Balzer and Miss Wade admitted the attack and implicated Mrs. Rowan as the instigator. It was Mrs. Rowan, the officers were told, who took the couple to the camp late Saturday night and then summoned Fuller by telephone. Campers said they saw Mrs. Rowan near the cabin a short time before the attack.

Fuller told police that factional strife has existed among the Seventh Day Adventist Church. Because of Mrs. Rowan's teachings and her followers were ousted. They formed a church of their own and called it the Seventh Day Adventist Reformed Church.

$35,000 SWINDLE SUSPECTS HELD FOR BANK ROBBERIES

Pair Under Indictment in St. Louis Accused of $350,000 to $500,000
Holdups in 4 States.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, March 2.—Tony Serpo and Frank Adam Reed, members of "Chappy" Moran's notorious gang of confidence men, under indictment in St. Louis for defrauding Mayor William G. Frank of Oakville, Ill., of $35,000, are held here for investigation in a series of bank holdups in Minnesota, Wisconsin, South Dakota and Michigan, which netted a gang of robbers between $350,000 and $500,000.

"Big Dave" Earsman, one of the men locked up, is reputed to have been the head of the gang. He was arrested yesterday when he inquired at the detective bureau about "Shinner" Crawford, first of the five to be taken. On information obtained from these two, detectives raided a flat and arrested Serpo, who is 45 years old; Reed, who is 37, and Robert Hayward.

Will Remain in Chicago.

It is unlikely that Serpo and Reed will be released to St. Louis authorities for trial on the swindling charge until every effort has been made to prosecute them as bank robbers. Another man, Tom Brady, is sought in both the swindling case and the bank robberies.

A. M. Devoursey, manager of the protective department of the Wisconsin Bankers' Association, insisted today that the five men had been identified in at least six of the bank robberies, the largest of which was at Columbus, Wis., where $135,000 was stolen from the First National Bank on Sept. 20, 1926.

In the robbery of the Olmstead County Trust & Savings Bank at Rochester, Minn., Dec. 24, last, two policemen were wounded and $30,000 was taken.

Four Other Robberies Listed.

Other robberies in which the five men are under inquiry include the Bank of Brodhead, Wis., Aug. 6, last, $16,000; First National Bank, New Bedford, N. D., Sept. 30, last, $60,000; Minnesota State Bank, Excelsior, Minn., October 1925, $10,000; First National Bank, Dowagiac, Mich., last November, $40,000.

In addition, Serpo is charged with robbing the J. M. Kaufman Co. of Champaign, Ill., of dresses, coats and stock certificates valued at $27,000.

The arrests were brought about by co-operation of various banking associations, postal inspectors and police of various states. "Shinner" Crawford was shadowed here for two days after a telephone tip warned detectives that the men sought were here.

The prisoners, who deny the charges, are fighting extradition proceedings which have been instituted in several of the states where they are wanted.

CONSTITUTION ADOPTED FOR REVIVAL OF JEFFERSON CLUB

Election of Officers Deferred Until About 1000 Members are on the Rosts.

A constitution was adopted for the Jefferson Club, a revival of a Democratic organization which was a power in city politics in former years, at a meeting attended by about 100 men at the Odeon last night. It was decided to defer election of officers until about 1000 members are on the rolls.

Purpose of the club, which is for Democrats between the ages of 21 and 40, was stated to be "to promote the establishment and maintenance of those principles of Democratic Government and individual rights espoused by Thomas Jefferson and embodied in the fundamental tenets of the Democratic party."

The club is planning a Jefferson day banquet, April 13, with some party speaker of national reputation, possibly Senator Reed. A resolution pledging co-operation with the city, State and national committees of the party was adopted. Kenneth Teasdale, a lawyer, chairman of the Organization Committee, presided.

PASTOR INDICTED FOR FRAUD

Lutheran Treasurer Accused of Making False Income Tax Return.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 2.—A Federal grand jury indictment charging the Rev. Oscar H. Gruver, pastor of Christ Lutheran Church of Alameda, and treasurer of the California Lutheran Synod, with making a false income tax return and perjury, was made public here yesterday in United States District Court. His bail was fixed at $10,000.

The pastor is charged with having defrauded the Government of taxes on bonds valued at $250,000, alleged to have been given to him by the late Julius Bohn of Oakland. The investigation developed from a civil action started by Mrs. Rosa A. Bohn, widow of the capitalist, to recover the bonds. Bohn died in 1922 and in his will disposed of an estate valued at $200,000. Gruver and Mrs. Bohn were named executors. The will provided that the estate go to Mrs. Bohn and a son and daughter.

DEATH AT CITY HOSPITAL INVESTIGATED BY POLICE

Fractured Rib Suffered by Gardener Who Attempted Suicide Is Unaccounted For.

Police are investigating the death at city hospital, at 9:45 o'clock last night, of Joseph Dankel, 64 years old, a gardener of 1848 Menard street.

Dankel, who lived alone, was taken to the hospital Saturday morning after neighbors had found him in serious condition in his room. He had slashed his left hand and abdomen with a razor, and he was kept in the observation ward, until Sunday, when it was learned he was suffering from chronic heart and kidney disease. An X-ray examination Sunday disclosed he had a fractured rib.

Death was attributed to chronic nephritis, with the fractured rib as a contributing cause. How his rib was fractured is the subject of investigation. Attendants said he was a peaceable patient, that he was not handled roughly and did not fall, so far as they knew.

LONG POLICE HOURS REDUCE ROBBERIES FROM 15 TO TWO

One Man Perpetrates Two Holdups, Failing in One — Total Loot $68 in Pair of Thefts.

As a result of Chief of Police Gerk's announcement yesterday that all policemen would work two hours overtime each day because there were 15 holdups the night before, only two robberies and one attempted robbery were reported last night.

Chief Gerk conferred yesterday with 15 police captains at Headquarters, and this morning with 32 lieutenants. He told them the overtime work would continue until crime abated, and, if necessary, the two days of recreation granted to policemen each month would be suspended.

One man perpetrated two of the holdups. At 6 o'clock he stepped from an automobile at Lawrence street and Shenandoah avenue and pointed a revolver at Edward Puellman of 4132A Hartford street, a Kroger store manager, and his friend, E. G. Holthaus, 4001A Shenandoah avenue, who were talking there. Holthaus ran into his home.

"Get into that alley," the highwayman ordered, and Puellman walked to the alley behind Holthaus home, where the robber took $61 in cash.

At 6:25 the same robber appeared at the Kroger store at 4048 Gratiot street. The manager, Earl Cherry, was locking his door from the outside. The robber shouted from his automobile, "Come here, you!" Cherry ran inside again and slammed the door behind him. The robber drove away.

The same 1926 license number was noted in both robberies, and, tracing it, police learned that the plates had been tossed into an ash box by a citizen two days ago. As a result, Chief Gerk repeated his annual request that auto owners destroy or conceal their old plates to keep them from the hands of law violators.

The other holdup was at 7 o'clock, when Eugene Duibor, 6535 Gravois avenue, was stopped in front of his home by a man with a pistol, who robbed him of $7.

10,000 CITIZENS TO AID SCHOOLS' COMMITTEE

Sample Sealed Ballots on Board Candidates Will Influence Recommendations.

The Citizens' School Board Committee has decided to mail at least 25,000 sample ballots to representative citizens in each of the 23 wards for use in a "straw vote" on the best candidates for the Board of Education.

"We think the citizens of St. Louis, irrespective of politics or religion, should have a say in the matter of selecting the candidates for the schools," said Arthur B. Birge, president of the Citizens' School Board Committee.

"We think the large majority of each citizen will select the best qualified candidates to the Board of Education," said Birge. "The voting records of all the candidates who file will be compiled and given to the 'voter' with the ballot for his use, and to the press. This committee maintains that on school matters based upon their experience. 'What in your opinion is the purpose of education?' is one question. Their views on intermediate and high schools also are solicited.

NEW CERTIFICATE OF ELECTION
ISSUED TO WILLIAM S. VARE
Documents Set Forth He Was Duly Chosen U. S. Senator by Voters of Pennsylvania.

By the Associated Press. HARRISBURG, Pa., March 1.—Gov. John S. Fisher has issued a new certificate of election to William S. Vare to replace the "certificate of doubt" tendered him by former Gov. Gifford Pinchot.

The new certificate sets forth that Vare was duly chosen by the qualified electors of the State of Pennsylvania to represent the First Congressional District in the United States Senate.

In issuing the substitute certificate the Governor stated that the Senate itself was the judge of elections and that the Governor should merely act as a transmitting agency between the voters and the Senate.

"Inasmuch as the duty of the Governor is purely administrative and has nothing to do with elections," he said, "I granted the application of Mr. Vare for a certificate in the form recommended by the United States Senate."

MILK PRODUCERS FORM NEW CORPORATION TO BOOST PRICE

Missouri and Illinois Dairymen Seek 6 or 7 Cents a Quart; Wholesale Price Now 54 Cents.

Eighty Missouri and Illinois dairymen met yesterday at the St. Louis City Hall to perfect market bargaining organization through which they hope to obtain better prices for milk from distributors in the St. Louis district.

At present the dairymen obtain 4 1/2 cents a quart for milk, which the distributors receive 6 cents a quart. Dairymen hope to obtain from 6 to 7 cents a quart.

Fifteen members of the present organization, the St. Louis Milk Producers' Co-operative Association, were elected to effect incorporation under the name of the St. Louis Milk Producers' Co-operative Association. The plan was outlined by Delos James of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

11,000 ACRES FOR ELK RANGE

Purchase of Tract in Wyoming $200,000 Recommended.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Purchase of 11,000 acres of land in the Jackson Hole district, Wyoming, for the southern elk herd, at a cost of $200,000, would be made by the Government and the State of Wyoming, under a program adopted by a special committee of the House of Representatives.

The 4000-acre range which the elk now have and would provide sufficient hay for the 20,000 animals in the herd.

The commission, which was selected by the Secretary of the State of Wyoming, has been organized and is now in the process of making the purchase. The plan was outlined by Delos James of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

CAUTION OF CHIEF TIED UP POLICE IN RICHMOND HEIGHTS

Deputy Says Marshal Maloney Forbade Raid on Dice Game "Till It Could Be Done Right."

A dice game ran for two and a half months in Richmond Heights with the knowledge of the police department, and three still operated after Richmond Heights police "suspected" something was wrong, but none of these places was raided until Central Township deputies went into the suburb and started the raids, witnesses testified last night at a public hearing into alleged police protection of bootleggers in Richmond Heights.

These witnesses, appearing before a special aldermanic committee at the City Hall, said that they had no knowledge of graft in the department and explained the failure of the Richmond Heights police to make raids as due to the cautious judgment of Marshal John Maloney.

Says Chief Ordered Delay.

"The Chief didn't want us to raid the dice game until we could raid it right," Deputy Marshal John Stucks testified. "He said he had a stool pigeon in the game and that the stool would tip us off."

"Did the stool tip you off?" an Alderman asked. "No. I found out that the stool was the owner of the game," Stucks replied. "I asked him, 'Are you a snitch?' He said, 'No. I'd look fine snitching on my friends, wouldn't I?' But Chief Maloney kept telling us to hold off, and I didn't question the Chief's judgment."

Meanwhile, Constable Roth's office was receiving numerous complaints from Richmond Heights residents that their young sons were losing money in the dice game. About a month ago the raid was made by Deputy Constables without the assistance of the Richmond Heights force. Several alleged gamblers were arrested.

"That was a fine kind of a stool to have," Alderman McKay commented.

Police Knew About Stills.

Deputy Stucks and Deputy Marshal Earl Butenhoff, first assistant to Marshal Maloney, both stated that they had advance information as to the location of two stills and a liquor "cutting" plant which were raided by Deputy Constable Charles Boenecke of Central Township. On one of these raids Boenecke took Butenhoff with him; on another he called in two Richmond Heights policemen after the raid was made.

Explaining the raid Feb. 12 at 1221A Big Bend road, in which 5000 gallons of mash ready to give off liquor was found, Stucks and Butenhoff said they had smelled a still there and Butenhoff told Maloney. The Marshal said he would take care of the warrant and would make the raid. The next thing the Richmond Heights police discovered was that Boenecke and his men were raiding the place. Maloney was busy the day of the raid getting new springs for his automobile and when Boenecke searched for him so he could take part he could not be found.

Intimation of Protection. Stucks, who is also Building Commissioner, said that he arrived on the scene of the Big Bend raid while it was in progress and that Tom Rowe, one of the men arrested, asked him:

"Didn't anyone speak to you about this?"

"I knew what he meant," Stucks added.

"What did he mean?" questioned Mayor Edward J. Houlihan.

There was much laughter as Stucks sought to indicate without actually stating that Rowe must have thought his place was being protected.

"He mentioned no names," the witness said. "And I don't know of any police officer who was protecting that or any other place." Butenhoff said he suspected the home of Matteo Torre on Woodland avenue, where Central Township Constables found $25,000 worth of liquor on Feb. 25, a week before the raid. He testified that he had told Maloney and that Maloney advised him to watch it. No move was made by any Richmond Heights officer to get a warrant and raid the place, however, and action was started by Boenecke. He took Butenhoff with him and after the large liquor stock was found in a sub-basement two other Richmond Heights officers, Tom Florence and Tom Brown, were called in to help smash bottles.

Known as "Mystery Home."

Changing from the role of policeman to that of Building Commissioner, Stucks admitted in an answer to questions from members of the committee that the sub-basement of the Woodlawn avenue house must have been built when the house was built and that it must have shown on the building plans.

"I wasn't Building Commissioner at that time," Stucks explained. Another witness acknowledged that this house had been gossiped about in Richmond Heights for more than a year and called "the mystery house."

The third instance in which Richmond Heights police "spotted" a still and then watched it operate until Central Township officers raided the place occurred Feb. 13 when a barn on Eager road near the Kirkwood-Ferguson car tracks yielded a 200-gallon still. Stucks said he and other officers smelled mash around this place and were watching it.

Bootlegger Questioned.

Bird S. Hurt, the bootlegger caught by Federal prohibition agents in a raid of Mehl avenue in Ferguson with a memorandum book, was on hand to explain why this book contained the following entries:

To police, $100, $115, $120, $75 To the Sheriff, $150.

In a speech to the committee which lasted 20 minutes, Hurt commented on the present and past state of society, referred to economic conditions and spoke of religion.

As for the memorandum book:

"I found it," he said. "I was on my way to John Winters' house on Mehl avenue, where I wanted to find honest work as a carpenter. I stopped at a roadhouse near his place as I hoped to get the job of repairing it and wanted to look it over. Imagine my surprise to see this notebook lying in the road! I picked it up and had no more than put it in my pocket than the prohibition agents grabbed me. I want this committee to vindicate me. My father was a Baptist minister. I wasn't raised that way, fooling around with bootleggers. I haven't taken a drink in two years and I don't like this unfavorable publicity. I haven't ever paid any police officer a cent."

Hurt pleaded guilty to possession of liquor in Federal Court three years ago and was fined. He admitted to a Post-Dispatch reporter that he had operated a place in Brentwood two years and had sold liquor there. He was raided several times.

Whitewashing Charged.

The meeting developed much partisan feeling and broke up in an angry debate over the question of a closed meeting.

"You fellows are trying to whitewash the police," cried Alderman Fred Stillman, who earlier had proposed that meetings henceforth be closed to the public. "I know things, and men have told me things, but they won't talk right out in open meeting."

Mayor Houlihan, sponsor of the open meeting, made a spirited speech, saying: "If a witness has anything to say about graft, let him face the men he accuses. If he's not man enough to do that, I don't want to hear his story privately."

Maloney Defies Accusers. Maloney, who heard all the testimony, took the stand and said he would answer any questions. "I defy anyone to prove that I ever got as much as a car token," he said. The committee declared they wished to question him later. Boenecke, another witness, said Richmond Heights police always had co-operated with him. He said he got his tips on the Richmond Heights raids from telephone calls and that he didn't tell Maloney about them because "it was my business."

The next meeting, tomorrow night, will be open to the public.

$2,341,000 for Rebuilding Arsenal.
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 2.—The Senate passed last night and sent to the President a House bill authorizing an appropriation of $2,341,000 for rebuilding the Picatinny army arsenal, which was damaged by the explosion at the Lake Denham (N. J.) naval storage depot.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grand-mother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product for only 75 cents. It is improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft, lustrous and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

DOESN'T NEED ANY LAXATIVES NOW

Milks Emulsion Made Life a Joy. No Constipation or Stomach Trouble.

"I had catarrh of the stomach and head for three years. My stomach was so bad that every time I ate anything sweet, such as fruit or pastry, the burning hot water would run out of my mouth. I took a laxative every night."

"Since taking Milks Emulsion my bowels move regularly. I have now taken ten bottles and have gained 10½ pounds. All my friends remark how fine I am looking, and it seems a pleasure to live again, without stomach trouble."—Bert Becker, Miami, Ohio.

Milks Emulsion restores healthy, natural bowel action, doing away with all needs of pills and physics. It promotes appetite and quickly puts the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food, thus bulking flesh and strength, which are Nature's only aids in conquering germs and repairing the effects of wasting diseases.

This is the only emulsion made, and so palatable that it is eaten with a spoon like ice cream. Wonderful for weak, sickly children. No matter how severe your case, you are urged to try Milks Emulsion. If not satisfied with results, your money will be promptly refunded. Price—75¢ and $1.20 per bottle. Sold by druggists everywhere.

HOW CITY MIGHT GIVE U. S. A SITE ON PLAZA

Counselor Muench Suggests to Plan Commission Submission of an Enabling Act.

Submission of an enabling act to make certain the right of the city to give the Government a site on Memorial Plaza for the projected Federal Building was suggested in an opinion by City Counselor Muench, submitted to the City Plan Commission last night at the Melbourne Hotel.

The city is acquiring the whole plaza site by condemnation and direct purchase, and has proposed giving the Government space at the southwest corner of Twelfth boulevard and Pine street on condition that a structure of monumental type be erected. Counselor Muench said there was no provision in the State laws or city ordinances specifically empowering the city to condemn land to be turned over to the Government, but he referred to court decisions in other states upholding such power. No action was taken on the matter last night. It was suggested the Government might simplify the procedure by filing a condemnation suit for its site, in which the city could acquiesce. The right of the city to place the projected municipal auditorium on part of the plaza site has been upheld in the courts.

A plan for a commercial thoroughfare across Tower Grove Park from which commercial vehicles are barred at present, will be taken up with the Park Commissioners. The proposed road would run from Morganford road and Arsenal street to Alfred and Magnolia avenues, Alfred being about 800 feet east of Kingshighway. It is proposed also to extend Alfred one block northward, from De Tonty street to Vandeventer avenue. A viaduct would be built to carry an existing park road, 600 feet south of Magnolia avenue, across the commercial thoroughfare, at a point of natural depression, and, if possible, without disturbing some fine old tulip trees there. Two other routes starting from the Morganford road entrance were suggested—one would go straight north to Magnolia avenue without meeting a cross street and the other would connect with Tower Grove avenue. Merchants have complained that their delivery cars have to go far out of the way because of the park.

The Street Committee of the commission was directed to study the condition of Manchester avenue, for about a mile and a half west from Kingshighway, where the street car tracks are at the southern edge of the thoroughfare, causing a serious traffic hazard. Direct r of Streets and Sewers Brooks said 18 persons have been killed by vehicles in this strip in the last five years.

Russell boulevard, between Grand boulevard and Tower Grove avenue, was added to the major street system.

DOUBLE TAX OPPONENTS UNITE

Senate Committee Condemns Bills

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—A united front for the passage of a bill to stop a form of double taxation by the State was presented to the Senate Ways and Means Committee yesterday when representatives from virtually every organized group in Missouri appeared to hear the committee report favorably on the bill. The bill under consideration, presented by Senator M. E. Ford (Dem.) of Maryville, seeks to remedy a defect in the laws allowing taxation of bills receivable, according to the senator. It was introduced shortly after a decision by the State Supreme Court holding that, since the law did not specifically exempt bills receivable, these assets were subject to taxation. Senator Ford's measure simply amends the law by placing bills receivable in the list of exemptions. Representatives of the various organizations predicted dire results to business in case the bill was not passed this session. The committee was unanimous in favor of the proposal, and voted that it "do pass."

WOMAN DIED OF HEART ATTACK

Coroner Ordered Autopsy in Death of Mrs. Simonin, 77.

An autopsy ordered by Coroner Vitt Monday, following an inquest into the death of Mrs. Emily Simonin, 77 years old, of 1923 South Ninth street, yesterday disclosed that Mrs. Simonin died of a heart attack.

The autopsy was ordered because of the testimony of stretcher-bearers at City Hospital, that Mrs. Simonin fell about six inches from the stretcher to the concrete walk leading to the receiving room while she was being carried into the hospital. She was injured when she tripped over a carpet in her home, Jan. 31.

Nicaraguan War Two Poorly Hacking

Ignorant Colonels Throwing to Keep an Illiterate A

By CARROLL BINDER.
Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and the Chicago Daily News, Copyright, 1927.
MANAGUA, Nicaragua, March 2.—Old-timers in the tropics rub their eyes in astonishment when they open the papers from the United States and note the publicity given the fervid efforts at mutual extermination now being indulged in by the Ins and Outs in Nicaragua.

For war and revolution are mere routine in the banana belt. Little Nicaragua, among others, has been revolting with unrelieved constancy for more than a century. The notoriety achieved by the Somoza-Diaz war is in part due to resort to a weapon hitherto unused by Central American warriors—the radio. Voluminous statements to the outside world—in such excellent English that their author might have been writing in his native tongue—give the struggle an importance hitherto unachieved by Central American Guelphs and Ghibellines.

Wars on Small Scale.
In other respects, however, war in Nicaragua qualifies for General Sherman's category quite as readily as do struggles taking in whole continents boasting ancient civilizations. Smaller in scale and with out the gun music, morale officers Y. M. C. A. cantones and other features of "civilized" warfare, the Nicaraguan war manages to generate its share of blood and tears.

But the blood and tears are more unevenly divided in Nicaragua than in most modern wars. There is no middle class in Nicaragua—just aristocracy and professional classes at the top and propertyless illiterates at the bottom, with a few skilled and semi-skilled workmen in between who are too few to affect the balance.

From the top come the innumerable Generals and Colonels—most of them innocent as a babe of anything military, from squares right to barracks, but formidable at a table where champagne corkers are popping. Those tables—wreathed with flowers and set with the General's drink toasts to the victors which will shortly win the most troops will shortly win. Fighting is the task of the less moose—barefooted, somber, red peasants who seldom have any idea what it is all about.

Recruits From Prisoners.
Recruiting in Nicaragua smugly of the old-time soldier's brass band of straggling boys, bayoneted with guns and bayoneted about the countryside searching for victims. They tend to be clear of men prosperous enough to wear shoes and coats. It is the barefooted mozo, dressed in tattered shirt and trousers, who pointed upon and marched away to combat duty. The pentecostal is one of the best recruits grounds for machete fodder in Nicaragua.

There is not much ceremony connected with induction into a Nicaraguan army. Juan Priole, just two hours of equipment for his chief—a blue and white ribbon, if he is a Government conscript and a red and white ribbon, if he is a Liberal conscript, and a green ribbon if he is a volunteer. Then he is of the flag and officers do little to break down fear by instructing him in its use.

If Juan is permitted to retain his machete he feels that he has even broken—probably the fellow on the other side knows as well about the gun as he does. If Juan can get hold of a red and white ribbon for emergency use in his own blues seem to be getting the worst of the combat, he counts himself fortunate. Particularly when one is wounded is such alternate ribbon of success. Neither faction troubles and stretcher-bearers along with combat groups. The dead who are cared for by the omnipotent buzzards and the seriously wounded left to die in the sun, they escape the machetes of victorious host.

Few Receive Any Pay.
Government troops are supposed to receive 25 cents a day, but they seldom filters down through the disbursing officers to the fighting men. Inasmuch as there is commissary the soldiers are able to collect their food from the commissary. The writer found the snapping cartridges for food—triggers which promptly found their way to the troop of the other side. Military science has never heard of by most Nicaraguans. Colonels, who make up most of shoe-wearing personnel of an army which has not been as densely strong politically as the Generals, think a barrage something to keep you in the line—if you have an automobile for strategy in a battle—the real forces on the west coast done fairly well at ambushing Conservative troops sent out to force them, and there the strands.

The rest of the warfare is a series of clashes between two poorly equipped and several hundred men, hacking away at one another one side runs. It is a more ferocious but not a more decisive than the battles staged in the American press.

NAVY ACADEMY TEACHER QUILTS

Was Held Responsible for Leak in Examination Questions.
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 2.—The resignation of an instructor at the Annapolis Naval Academy, following his implication in the recent cribbing there, has been submitted and accepted, effective April 1. His name was not divulged.

In announcing the resignation

Secretary of the Navy Wilbur said that academy authorities had failed to uncover any evidence that the instructor had distributed examination questions to any midshipmen, but that they nevertheless held him responsible for the leak. One midshipman has been dismissed and four demoted in connection with the incident.

Old Folks Need a Mild Laxative —Not a "Physic"

Most men and women past fifty must give to the bowels some occasional help, else they suffer from constipation. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect a gentle aid to weak bowels.

Is your present laxative, in whatever form, promoting natural bowel "regularity"—or must you purge and "physic" every day or two to avoid sick headache, dizziness, biliousness, colds, or sour, gassy stomach?

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin helps to establish natural, regular bowel movement even for those chronic-ly constipated. It never gripes, sickens or upsets the system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take.

Buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine, or write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, for a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE and just see for yourself.

WHISKY BILL PASSED IN HOUSE AFTER FIGHT

Measure for Treasury Supervision of Private Manufacture in Senate's Hands.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Mar. 2. — The House has passed the Ways and Means Committee's Meddinal Whisky Bill and it now goes to the Senate. It would permit private manufacture of liquor under the supervision of the treasury and is intended to replenish stocks approaching depletion.

The customary wet and dry lines in the House were shattered on the vote. It was sent to the Senate after several hours of acrimonious debate, by a vote of 209 to 151.

During the debate repeated attacks were made upon Secretary Mellon, Representative Howard, of Nebraska, going so far as to offer an amendment to entitle the bill "an act for the relief of Mellon and associates." Other members charged that it placed a monopoly in the Treasury Secretary's hands.

The bill would give the Secretary of the Treasury authority to permit manufacture of whisky, "at a reasonable price" in from two to six distilleries, under regulations prescribed by him. While no restrictions as to amounts are placed upon the Secretary, it is expected between two and three million gallons annually will be necessary to keep an adequate supply on hand. Retailers would be required to sell the whisky at a profit not in excess of 100 per cent and the profit to the distilleries would be limited to 10 cents a gallon under amendments offered by Representative W. E. Hull, of Illinois, a former distiller.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. MARCELINE, Mo., March 2. — Mrs. Dennis V. Downey, who until her recent elopement in Detroit and Chicago with the former priest, following their marriage in Chicago. On her return home, she said she was expecting the former clergyman to return to Marceline soon to take her to their permanent home. She said he was traveling for a Chicago firm by automobile.

Where she has gone is known here only to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ike Myers, and they remain silent. "She didn't want any more publicity," the mother said today. Neighbors are divided in belief that the young wife has gone to Chicago to join her husband, or that he has slipped into Marceline quietly and has taken her away.

MORE BRIDGE BILLS PASSED
By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, March 2. — The following bills for bridges were passed by the House Monday night and sent to the Senate:

Across the Missouri River between Nebraska, Neb., and a point opposite in South Dakota; across the Kanawha at Kanawha Falls, West Virginia; across the Mahoning River at West avenue, Youngstown, O.; across the ed River of the North at Great Forks, North Dakota; across the Missouri River at Herman, Mo., and at Washington, Mo.

So Clean Inside, No Fear of Perspiration Offense, However Over-Heated.

Once a person realizes the wonderful properties in cascara, no other laxative in the market would ever be considered. It's no trick to "clean out the bowels." Dozens of things will do that. But a little natural cascara purifies the system clear through. Cleanses even the pores of your skin. Renders perspiration as inoffensive as the breeze. The old-fashioned way was "salt." They got action, but they take the waste matter along with the waste. Mineral salts are gentle, but they leave the bowels with a film of poisons for the blood to carry off through the pores. But when you cascade the system, you get rid of all the poisons by normal muscular action of the bowels.

If you have the habit of taking medicine for constipation, or even for auto-intoxication, stop it. Form a daily habit of taking cascara. Children love them, and the taste tempts most grown-ups to have "more."

And what a comfort to know you are in that clean, wholesome condition that does away with any need of deodorants, even in warmest weather! Try a cascade tonight—see how you feel next day, and for days after! With the skin fresh and fragrant. All druggists, the and 25c.

Benjamin Giamanco Convicted by Jury on Testimony of Two Detectives.
A sentence of six months in jail and a fine of $500 were imposed yesterday upon Benjamin Giamanco, 24 years old, by a jury in Circuit Judge Ossing's court, which found him guilty of carrying a concealed weapon. Giamanco was arrested last Sept. 7, at a time when the feud between the Cuckoo gang and an Italian clique, with which Giamanco was allied, was raging.
Detective Sergeant Frank Williams and Detective Charles Shelton testified they stopped an automobile occupied by Giamanco and a friend, Sam Tocco, at Twelfth boulevard and Chestnut street, and found Giamanco and Tocco sitting on revolvers.
Giamanco's defense was that he was on his way to Springfield, Ill., and availed himself of the privilege of carrying a revolver on an interstate trip. He said his life had been threatened about the time his brother was killed five years ago.
Tocco is to be tried later. A second charge of carrying a concealed weapon is pending against Giamanco as the result of his arrest last Sept. 29, when he is alleged to have thrown away a revolver as a policeman approached him at Twelfth and Locust street. In 1923 he was fined $100 for carrying a revolver.

HOUSE DEMOCRATS IN CAUCUS SELECT MINORITY LEADERS

Garrett, Party Candidate for Speaker, to Succeed Himself as Floor Chief.
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 2.—Representative Finis J. Garrett of Tennessee was nominated unanimously last night by House Democrats as the party candidate for Speaker in the next Congress. As Republicans will have a safe majority, it was provided that upon defeat he automatically succeeds himself as minority floor leader.

Representative Greenwood of Indiana was elected chairman of the caucus, while Representative Arnold of Illinois, was chosen secretary and Mrs. Norton of New Jersey, the only woman member of the party in Congress, assistant secretary.
Representative John N. Garner of Texas was selected to succeed himself as ranking minority member on the Ways and Means Committee, as were all other minority members. This committee later will select the Democratic membership for other House committees. While the caucus is not authorized to select a party whip, Garrett is expected to reappoint Representative Oldfield of Arkansas.

WILL OF DR. ROBERT BARCLAY AN UNUSUAL DOCUMENT

Copies of Divorce Petition of Mother in 1849 Among Requests to Three Sons.
An unusual will, leaving to his three sons the copies of the divorce petition, filed in St. Louis in 1849 by his mother, was filed in Probate Court today by executors of the estate of Dr. Robert Barclay, who died at his home, 378 North Taylor avenue, last Friday.
Old family manuscripts, consisting of letters, books, and a "family tree" tracing the Barclays to Normandy, thence to England and Scotland, and then to America in the early colonial days, also were left to the sons.

The divorce petition was that of Mary Malinda Hill, mother of Dr. Barclay, against Britton A. Hill, who was a St. Louis lawyer, charging cruelty and asking the custody of a minor child. Mrs. Hill remarried after obtaining the divorce.
Dr. Barclay's medical library goes to physician friends. The monetary value of the estate is said to be small. Dr. Barclay, an ear, nose and throat specialist, was 69 years old and had been practicing in St. Louis since 1883.

JUDGE'S IMPEACHMENT URGED

Prejudiced Against Liquor Defendants. Leg-lator Charges.
By the Associated Press.
PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 2.—Impeachment of Federal Judge George F. Moore of New Hampshire, who frequently sits in Providence and Boston, because he "has shown prejudice against defendants charged with violation of the prohibition laws," is requested of Congress by State Senator Archambault of West Warwick, in a resolution he has introduced.
The resolution charges that Judge Moore has shown prejudice; that he has imposed excessive fines and has unreasonably imprisoned defendants charged with violations of the prohibition laws.

COURT COMMISSIONER NAMED

Roy D. Williams, Boonville, and W. F. Frank, Kirksville, Chosen.
By the Associated Press.
LIBERTY, Mo., March 2.—Roy D. Williams of Boonville and William Francis Frank of Kirksville have been named commissioners of the Kansas City Court of Appeals, following a conference of Judge Ewing T. Bland and Judge Henry L. Arnold with President Judge Francis H. Trimble here.
The appointment of the two commissioners was authorized recently by a bill passed by the Legislature. The men were named for terms of two years each at a salary of $6,000 a year. The commissioners will assist in disposing of the Court of Appeals docket and will pass on cases and submit their decisions to the three judges.

SUN WITHDRAWING HIS ENTIRE FORCE FROM BATTLE LINE

SHANTUNG ARMY DEFENDS SHANGHAI

Labor Agitators Said to Be Using Terrorism Against Foes of Recent Strike in Port City.

By the Associated Press. SHANGHAI, March 2.—The movement of Shantungese troops into the war theater south of here is believed by foreign authorities to have reached a volume sufficient to stop the Cantonese advance on Shanghai so far as actual fighting is concerned.

However, the question has arisen as to whether the defenders will be able to withstand the bribery and propaganda tactics of the Southerners, which hitherto have been successful.

Terrorism Used by Agitators. Foreign police here today obtained evidence that labor radicals are preparing for another general strike to take place whenever the Cantonese gain a decisive military victory.

The agitators were reported to be using the militarists' own weapons, terrorism, in their plans. At least two murders and several shootings in the Chinese quarter are known to have taken place. Two men were arrested on murder charges.

Victims of the agitators, chiefly Chinese foremen who posed the recent strike, which labor leaders regarded as a preparatory test for a real demonstration. They expected that the preliminary strike would reveal "weakness" which they hoped to correct.

Generals Desert Sun. The utter collapse of the mighty forces of Marshal Chuan-fan, who until 10 days ago was the chief defender of Shanghai, has been brought about principally by the "boring from within" on the part of the Cantonese. One after another, Marshal Chuan-fan has lost his five provinces. There has been a minimum of actual fighting since he started his campaign against the Nationalists. The series of defections and traitors whereby Sun's Generalissimo has culminated in so many withdrawals, he has been eliminated as a military factor.

Other Generals have followed step taken by Gen. Meng Yueh, one of Sun's leading commanders, who yesterday refused to fight with the Shantung army ally. Meng and his staff desert Sun.

Chang Alone Holds Line. The result of this was the announcement today that all of Sun's forces were being drawn from the front at Sungshai 21 miles south of here, leaving the army of Gen. Tsung-chang, Yung commander, alone to halt Cantonese advance toward Shanghai.

An unconfirmed report from Nanking, the provincial capital, from where the military operations are being directed, said Sun telegraphed his resignation as vice commander of the Kuochun (Allied Northern Army) to Marshal Chang-tao-lin, Northern Generalissimo.

Northern leaders maintain, however, that the replacement of Shantungese troops for those of Marshal Sun was being made under an agreement.

Many of Sun's troops are being drawn from the front at Sungshai and broken in morale. It is not believed they will be a menace to Shanghai as the Cantonese are rapidly moving to the front and have appeared in sufficient force here to avert the settlements. Foreign troops now total 12,000, exclusive of crews of nearly 30 warships. are believed to be strong enough to prevent incursion of the Cantonese.

Thousands Desert. A large number of troops of the broken army of Marshal Chuan-fang tonight were reported to be going over to the Canton army and thousands of others said to be deserting. Up to this time there has been trustworthy evidence of fighting on the Sungshai front. The Cantonese army is believed

An unconfirmed report from Nanking, the provincial capital from where the military operations are being directed, said Sun had telegraphed his resignation as a vice commander of the An-Kueichun (Affiliated Northern Armies) to Marshal Chang-tso-lin, Northern Generalissimo.

Northern leaders maintained, however, that the replacement by Shantung troops for those of Marshal Sun had been made under an agreement.

Many of Sun's troops are retreating from Sungkiang practically leaderless and broken in morale, but it is not believed they will be a menace to Shanghai as the Shantungese are rapidly appearing in sufficient force here to avert trouble in the vicinity of the foreign settlements. Foreign troops here now total 12,000, exclusive of the crews of thirty 30 warships. These are believed to be strong enough to prevent incursion of the foreign army.

Thousands Desert.
A large number of troops from the broken army of Marshal Sun Chuan-fang tonight were reported to be going over to the Cantonese army and thousands of others were said to be deserting.

Up to this time there has been no trustworthy evidence of real fighting on the Sungkiang front. The Cantonese army is believed to

Spontaneous Generation of Life Possible on Earth and All Other Planets, Dr. Duggar SaysSt. Louis Scientist's Experiments Extending Over Ten Years Tend to Disprove Pasteur's Theory on Subject.

A stupendous adventure of the laboratory was described to an audience of several hundred men and women under auspices of the Washington University Association last night at the university School of Medicine.

The adventure was none less than trailing life to its source in the primal ooze. It was described by the voyager himself, B. M. Duggar, director of the research laboratory of Shaw's Garden, professor in Washington University, author of many treatises, officer or past officer of scientific bodies, both national and international. He began his exploration of the undiscovered country 10 years ago in St. Louis, and still is searching for further landmarks on the path where he found the first dim traces of the beginning of life.

Further logical inferences from his discoveries, sketched last night by Dr. Duggar, were a step on from Pasteur, toward proof—contrary to Pasteur's theory—that life could spring up spontaneously; that life had not sprung from the inanimate once, but many times, and even now might be beginning anew all around us; and that it might be so beginning, about to begin, or have begun, on every "earth" of every constellation in the universe.

The life of mankind was illuminated by Dr. Duggar in an astonishing perspective. He added to the immense vista of rising and falling civilizations on this planet, an arresting glimpse of countless caravans of life, rising and passing on every heavenly body in the desert of space.

Simple Living Particles.
Dr. Duggar divided his address along two lines: experiments, checked and re-checked for years, which forced him to the conclusion, against his earlier impression, that the "molecular disease" of tobacco was caused by "simple living particles"; a tenth the diameter of the smallest known germ, and in no perceptible way different from particles of many lifeless organic compounds except that they had power of reproduction; and his revision of the origin of life to conform with knowledge of these "simple living particles," which has stood the scrutiny of the scientific world since he first suggested it last September.

Steps of his logic were: Although it was hard to imagine that a form of life so complex as the simplest germ could arise spontaneously from the most complex inanimate substance, the organic colloids, the "simple living particles" was exactly the same in size and structure as the particles in organic colloids, and might achieve sustenance by simple contact with its "foods" and reproduction by simple impact breaking of bits to become other "living particles."

Basis of Argument.
Life would not have originated except under conditions favorable to evolution to life, and conditions believed to have been general in early ages of the earth since the beginning of circumstances; hence it is reasonable to suppose that lifeless colloidal particles still are bringing up reinforcements before attacking Sungkiang in earnest. The reinforcements have to be transported over terrain which offers the greatest difficulty, being cut up by rivers, canals and bogs.

The Fall of Sun.
Once overlord of five provinces of Central China, Marshal Sun ruled one of the richest areas in the Far Eastern republic, including Shanghai. Less than a year ago Sun threw his lot in with the Pekin allies, expecting to crush the advancing Cantonese. But he met with one reverse after another.

The strength of the Shantung army is not definitely known, but when its leader, a former ally of the Northern military alliance, entered Nanking 10 days ago he said that he was bringing 30,000 soldiers to Sun's aid. Since that time Northern troops have poured steadily into the Shanghai area from the North.

LONDON, March 2.—Debate in the House of Lords yesterday resolved itself into a question of the House of Commons. Burnham propounded the question: "Why do we exist?"

Lord Carson tried to answer, but gave it up after admitting that fewer than one-tenth of all the peers attended regularly, while the rest considered the business of the House an awful bore.

becoming "simple living particles"—that life still is multitudinously beginning anew.

The evolutionary history of other bodies in space is similar to that of the earth; hence, it is logical that on other bodies similar circumstances may give rise to life by similar steps.

What Pasteur Proved.
"Pasteur," he said, "is commonly supposed to have disproved the idea of the spontaneous generation of life. As students of living organisms and their development, we know he disproved no such thing. He showed that known forms of life did not originate in a brief time in a sterilized nutrient fluid; this fact is of incalculable value and it has effectively precluded many false and fantastic theories. The proof he offered is that no way operates to deter that type of investigation which may tend to take us nearer to an understanding of possible forms of life than wholly unknown."

As form of life then unknown he mentioned not only the sub-cellular life in the mosaic and other virus diseases, but the ultramicroscopic bacteriophage, common to sewage water, which has been described by other scientists as smaller than any known bacteria and preying upon them.

"It is, I think, to the average biologist and biochemist, impossible to conceive of life as the prime originator of complex organic materials," he said. "It is one step further in the process of development of complexity on the earth, and then in turn it has become the most potent means of producing organic matter."

Life From Other Planets.
He sketched Arrhenius' modification of the meteor theory of the origin of life, based on the idea that germs floating in the upper air might become subject to pressure of light waves, a form of radiant energy which might transport them from Mars to the earth in about 20 days.

Just why anyone should assume conditions more satisfactory for the origin of life on any other planet, rather than our own, is difficult to understand," he remarked. "There is every reason to believe that we would have had essentially the same evolutionary history."

"I cannot now feel that I would have much interest in the problem of the origin of life if there seemed the faintest likelihood that it originated only once in the development of this world—or of other worlds," Prof. Schaffer of Dalhousie in his presidential address of 1912 put the matter most cogently when he asks if there is any valid reason to conclude—from geological or any evidence whatsoever—that our earth was once more the subject of other laws than those which have produced and are producing the various forms of non-living matter."

"And again, 'if life is being produced from non-living substance it will be life of a far simpler character than has yet been observed. . . . Well may we ask ourselves, 'why the production of living matter alone should be subject to other laws than those which have produced and are producing the various forms of non-living matter.'"

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, March 2.—Six American airplanes, with crews under command of Maj. Ross E. Rowell, United States Marine Corps, arrived here yesterday by special train from Corinto. They will be used for scouting and maintaining communications.

Two officers of the staff of Rear Admiral Latimer, commanding the U. S. naval forces in Nicaraguan waters, accompanied Mariano Arguello Cervantes, Charles Morales and Antonio Medrano—two of the last three Liberals, the third neutral—on a trip to find the chief Liberal General, Jose Moncada, in the Matagalpa region in an effort to induce him to give up his campaign in behalf of the Liberal Government at Porto Cabezas. Diaz gave them safe conduct through the Conservative lines.

They plan to tell Moncada the state of affairs relative to the land-water forces by the Diaz regime, and the proposal made by the Conservative President Diaz for a treaty with the United States.

A recent dispatch from Corinto quoting the British charge d'affaires, Harold Patterson, as saying that if necessary Great Britain would recognize the Diaz regime, has proved to be erroneous. Patterson's cabled statement being misinterpreted through the omission of punctuation. Great Britain has already recognized President Diaz.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 2.—Defeat for engrossment in the House late yesterday afternoon of the administration's alternative tax measure, which would have increased the income and corporation taxes, turned their attention to defeating the whole bill, their action being to deprive the State of approximately $7,000,000 of revenue in a biennial period because the rural sections of the State, which they represent, would have been forced to pay approximately $900,000 of the total. They succeeded in knocking the bill, which was defeated for engrossment by a vote of 64 yeas to 74 noes.

When the Bales amendment came to a vote it was defeated 56 yeas to 83 noes. Those who stood with Bales with few exceptions, turned their attention to defeating the whole bill, their action being to deprive the State of approximately $7,000,000 of revenue in a biennial period because the rural sections of the State, which they represent, would have been forced to pay approximately $900,000 of the total. They succeeded in knocking the bill, which was defeated for engrossment by a vote of 64 yeas to 74 noes.

It would appear likely that the action will prevent the voting of any additional taxes by the Legislature, though at this time that cannot be considered as certain. There remains in the House Ways and Means Committee three bills which taken together cover the same ground as the bill killed yesterday. Bales attempted to force them from the committee by a motion after he had killed the three-tax bill, but the House was in no mood to consider them and defeated his motion. It is probable they will come from the committee later and that the fight will be renewed on the items separately.

Situation in Senate.
Then, too, it is certain the Senate will reject the nuisance taxes, though there really is little basis for thinking favorable action on that plan may be expected from the Senate. None of the well-informed Senators, such as Cave, Painter, McCawley or Haymes, believe it will pass.

However, a very strong case for additional revenue has been made out before the House Appropriations Committee. It has been stated that many of the buildings at the State University and other educational institutions are in need of replacement, that buildings at several of the hospitals for the insane are in a deplorable condition, that there is a waiting list of more than 800 children seeking admission to the Colony of the Feeble-Minded at Marshall, and that more than 200 deaf children are waiting for admission to the School for the Deaf at Fulton.

It is going to be extremely difficult for the Senate to refuse to call for the plans of the management of these institutions for more funds, and much as they dislike the nuisance tax program proposed by the Governor and passed by the House, they may swallow it as a temporary measure until the Legislature meets.

If the House had given the Senate its choice of the nuisance taxes, or the property, income and corporation franchise plan, there now is little doubt that the latter would have passed the Senate. Perhaps Cave's plan for a bond issue for buildings at the institutions will take the place of the proposed tax increases, but that remains to be seen.

Rodman Wanamaker Backs
Byrd's Paris Flight PlanWill Provide Necessary Funds, at Least $150,000, for Navy Aviator's Attempt to Win Orteig Prize.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 2.—Rodman Wanamaker will finance Lieutenant-Commander Richard E. Byrd's attempt to make the 3600-mile flight from New York to Paris this June, it is learned. He will be the sole sponsor for the hop, which probably will cost $150,000.

When the navy flyer made his jump to the North Pole and back, a group of financiers, including Edsel Ford, John D. Rockefeller Jr. and Vincent Astor joined with Wanamaker in putting up the money, but this time Wanamaker is going to go it alone. He is a great admirer of Byrd, and as far back as 1914 he was planning a trans-Atlantic flight.

By this centering of all authority in one individual, it is expected that much of this bickering, the crossing of petty ambitions and jealousies, which have marred other attempts in the past, will be eliminated or at least reduced to a minimum.

To Complete Plans at Once.
Detailed plans for Byrd's bid for the Raymond Orteig prize of $25,000 will be made within the week. Wanamaker's organization will assume supervision, while Byrd, Floyd Bennett, his pilot on the polar flight, and G. O. Noville, fuel engineer, will establish headquarters in New York and work out the practical details.

Byrd will use a specially built Fokker monoplane, now nearing completion. Although officers of the Fokker plant at Teterboro, N. J., refuse to talk, it is learned that the plane will be ready for a test flight about May 1.

It will be an improvement on the "Josephine Ford" Fokker in which Byrd and Bennett flew to the North Pole. The plane will be equipped with the latest improved Wright whirlwind radial motors, each capable of at least 225 horsepower. About 10 feet of wing will be added to the regulation spread to permit of a take-off with the load of enough gasoline and oil for the distance across the Atlantic. Theoretically the plane will be able to go 4000 miles, giving the aviators a 400-mile margin for errors in navigation, unfavorable winds and other hazards.

Third Man to Go Along.
In addition to Bennett, without whom Byrd has repeatedly said he would make no important flights, a third man will probably be taken along, probably Lieut. Hernt Balchen, a Norwegian, picked up by Byrd on his North Pole expedition. Balchen has been flying constantly with Bennett and Byrd since arriving in this country.

Meanwhile all arrangements have been made for the attempt of Capt. Rene Fonck, French ace, last summer. Fonck failed to get off the ground with his Sikorsky biplane, two of the crew being killed when the machine upset and burned at the end of the take-off. Francis R. Mayer announces that all the funds necessary for the flight have been gotten together, but he refuses to name the backers.

Fonck recently sailed for France to consult with friends and backers there, but will return here by April 1. Lieut. Lawrence W. Curtin, United States navy pilot, who sat besides Fonck on the ill-fated first attempt, has offered to accompany him again.

Others Who Will Try It.
Others who have declared their intention of competing for the Orteig prize are Lieut. Noel Davis, navy reservist, who will use a Huff-Daland special. He will be financed, it is understood, by manufacturers of the plane.

Charles A. Lindbergh of St. Louis is the latest entrant, having formally announced that he will fly a Ryan monoplane. Lindbergh is an air mail pilot on the St. Louis-to-Chicago run. His plane is under construction on the Pacific coast.

The radio played an important part in the last presidential election and is certain to have a more important part in the next one. At the Naval Academy, where he was stationed from 1907 to 1911, he organized the department of Electrical Engineering. He was commandant at San Francisco in 1911 and 1912, and from 1912 to 1916 was superintendent of the naval radio service. A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—President Coolidge yesterday named the five members of the newly created Federal Radio Commission, which will issue licenses and assign wave lengths to all broadcasting stations in the United States and its island possessions. They are:

Rear Admiral William H. G. Bullard (retired) for a term of six years.
Orestes H. Caldwell of Bronxville, N. Y., for five years.
Eugene O. Sykes, Jackson, Miss., four years.

Henry A. Bellows, Minneapolis, three years.
John F. Dillon, San Francisco, two years.
Sykes and Bellows are Democrats, and the other three are Republicans. The law requiring that the commission be bi-partisan.

Something new in politics will appear as soon as the commission is confirmed and starts functioning. It holds the power of life and death over the more than 20,000 land, 2000 ship stations under the American flag. What is more to the point, it has the power to assign wave lengths. The land stations include hundreds of amateur ones.

Already this is producing a novel propaganda. Broadcasting stations are reported as appealing to listeners to write or telegraph the commission in behalf of the respective station.

Fierceness of the competition may be understood when it is known that there are 62 stations in a radius of 60 miles of New York City, 53 in the Chicago district, 26 in Boston, 24 in Philadelphia, and 23 in Los Angeles and Seattle each.

The Senate fought for two years to prevent Secretary of Commerce Hoover from having "control of the air," and apparently had partially succeeded, but it now seems certain that Hoover will win the show, and that Hoover will run the show.

President Coolidge and the members of the House favored a bill which would give Hoover control. The Senate insisted upon the establishment of a bi-partisan commission, and finally got it.

Nevertheless, it is believed here that Hoover's record has been accepted by the President in selecting the members of the commission, and few doubt that he will be the dominating influence in the radio situation.

Where stations are operated by institutions that have a political interest the action of the radio commission will be scrutinized with great interest.

WILLIAM HENRY ALLEN, 85, CIVIL WAR VETERAN, DIES

He Was Identified With St. Louis Lumber Companies for Several Years.

William Henry Allen, Civil War veteran and for many years identified with St. Louis lumber companies, died at Barnes Hospital shortly before noon today from a compound fracture of the thigh suffered in a fall several weeks ago. He was 85 years old and resided at 4947 Buckingham court.

Mr. Allen had been a resident of St. Louis since 1903. He came here from Wisconsin for the Knapp-Stout Lumber Co., which had large timber holdings in Missouri, Arkansas and Wisconsin. He was identified in an executive capacity with the Paul Lumber Co. of St. Louis, retiring 10 years ago because of ill health and failing eyesight. He was born in Orono, Me., and as a youth, had enlisted in the Fifth Michigan Infantry, serving with that organization throughout the Civil War. He was cited for bravery under fire and at the close of the war was made a brevet Captain.

Mr. Allen is survived by his widow, Mrs. Lottie Creath Allen, and one daughter, Mrs. George W. Ruhl. The body will be sent to Menominee, Wis., his former home, tomorrow for burial.

STATE CHILD WELFARE FIGHT NEARS CLIMAX

First Step Taken Toward Relief of Cupples—Mothers' Aid Bill Introduced.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 2.—
The long fight for State-wide child welfare legislation is approaching a climax in the Missouri General Assembly.

Measure have been introduced in both houses for a mother's aid or pension bill, patterned after a bill passed in 1917 applicable only to Kansas City, providing for a moderate pension paid by the county to the mothers of fatherless children to permit them to stay at home and care for their children. The measure is designed to eliminate orphanages. It was introduced by Representative William Hicks of Kansas City, who drafted the Kansas City bill in 1917.

Miss Sophie Irene Loeb, lecturer, writer and president of the Child Welfare Committee of America, Inc., of New York, was here recently in the interest of such legislation. From Miss Loeb's recommendation to the New York General Assembly in 1913, Hicks wrote the original bill for the Missouri Legislature.

Optional to Counties.

His present bill would make the law State-wide, with adoption of the plan optional with the counties.
Upon acceptance of the provisions, the County Court would apportion a pension of $16 a month to the mother for the first child and $8 for each of her other children.

Where a mother is deemed not morally capable of caring for her children, the bill provides that they be placed in the care of the State Board of Charities and Corrections, after court procedure, and placed in proper private homes at the expense of the county.

Another child welfare measure, a joint and concurrent resolution introduced by Dr. A. H. Baldwin of Pleasant Hill, and passed by both Houses, calls for a commission to determine the necessity for a State institution to treat and educate crippled children of rural districts. Dr. Baldwin asserts there are 10,000 crippled children without adequate care in Missouri.
The expense appropriation for the commission is $1000.

Work of Community.

The committee will inquire into the necessity for such an institution, number of afflicted children, location and cost of construction, operation and maintenance of the proposed hospital school.

Dr. Baldwin was appointed a member of the commission by Speaker Winter of the House, and Senator B. T. Gordon of Liberty, was named from the Senate, along with Dr. James Stewart, secretary of the State Board of Health and State Health Commissioner;
Charles A. Lee, State Superintendent of Schools, and an orthopedic surgeon to be appointed.

Gov. Baker has indicated he would sign the mother's pension

MAGAZINE FEATURES GROWTH

Progressive Development Is Sub-
Library Journal.

The development of the St. Louis Public Library into one of the leading institutions of the kind in the United States is the subject of editorial comment in a recent issue of the Library Journal, published in New York.

"The St. Louis Public Library is well entitled to take credit for its history and progressive development." The work of the present librarian, Dr. Arthur E. Bostwick, has been well-nigh marvelous, as his work has made itself felt throughout St. Louis and has also made the library one of the most notable in America," the editorial states.

The editorial is accompanied by an autobiography of the library by Leonard Balz and an interior view of the Central Library Building is used to illustrate the cover of the publication.

Fellow Workers.

Pledges of a day's pay a week to support 110 workers, who were locked out by the proprietors of two dyeing and cleaning establishments last week because of union affiliations, were made by about 600 members of the Cleaners, Dyers and Pressers' Union, at a meeting at Unity Hall, Grand and Page boulevards, last night.

A minimum wage scale and reduced working hours to comply with the rules of the American Federation of Labor were discussed at the meeting and referred to a committee for presentation to employers recognizing the union next week. In setting a higher minimum wage, union leaders cite the recent increase in cleaning and dyeing prices in both wholesale and retail plants.

State Supreme Court on Banc Sustains Law Passed by the 1923 Legislature.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 2.—
Validity of a law passed by the 1923 Legislature adding electric light and power companies to the classes of public utilities assessed for taxation purposes by the State Tax Commission and State Board of Equalization was upheld by State Supreme Court on banc in a decision yesterday afternoon in a suit brought by the Union Electric Light and Power Co. of St.

Louis.

The decision again affirms previous rulings by the court sustaining the method of assessing the property of public utilities and distribution of the assessment of a public utility to the counties in which they operate upon the basis of miles of wire or track. The Union Electric Light and Power Co., in an application for a writ of cer-torari for review of its assessment of $21,227,755 by the State for 1925 taxes, contended the 1923 statute was invalid.

To Chipso every minute of your time is precious. So Chipso helps you to do your dishes in one-third less time. Chipso gives you a brand-new half hour each day!

Why the Chipso method is so easy:

Chipso is fine clean flakes of real soap, not a powder! When you put a tablespoon of Chipso in your dishpan and pour on the hot water, you have fine working suds instantly, without a bit of beating.

Wash your glass and silver first. While you're rinsing and drying them, soak the china in the same suds. Chipso will dissolve most of the grease and food traces into the water before you even touch the dishes.

Then while you dry the china, soak the kitchen utensils, adding more Chipso if the water needs it.

This new Chipso way costs less than one cent

COOLIDGE SIGNS NEW CRUISER MEASURE

Fund to Which He Objected Is Included in Naval Appropriation Bill.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—The appropriation for three new cruisers, put into the naval bill by Congress over the recommendation of President Coolidge, received presidential acquiescence today when Mr. Coolidge signed the bill.

The cruiser proposal repeatedly has been linked in congressional discussion with the President's move for a naval limitation conference, but in announcing signature of the bill the White House did not disclose to what extent the decision may have been influenced by the diminishing prospects for a further limitation treaty.

Sponsored by the big navy advocates in Congress, the cruisers at first were left out of the naval appropriation bill by the House, but after the Senate had approved the project, House leaders obtained similar action at their end of the capitol. It was in the midst of the discussion that Mr. Coolidge proposed a limitation conference to Great Britain, Japan, France and Italy.

No Time for New Bill.

President Coolidge had given no intimation that he has changed his mind about the advisability of building the cruisers. It is pointed out that the bill approved today carried all the money for the entire naval establishment during the coming year, and that a veto would have left the Navy Department without funds. With only two days of the session of Congress left, repassage of any sort of appropriation would have been out of the question.

Furthermore, it is not impossible that the $450,000 carried in the bill for beginning work on the three cruisers may go unexpended. On at least one occasion recently Congress has appropriated for naval activities and the White House has returned the money. That was in the Harding administration, when a fund for elevating the guns on battleships was returned to Congress on the ground that it might violate the Washington arms treaties.

Fund for Gun Elevation.

This Congress has approved the proposal to elevate the guns of the battleships Oklahoma and Nevada to increase their firing range, but whether President Coolidge will sign the measure before the Friday adjournment is doubtful.

This is based on a White House announcement that in view of the controversy over whether such alterations to the battleships would violate the spirit of the Washington arms treaty, inquiries had been made by the State Department to ascertain the attitude of Great Britain.

Just when these inquiries were addressed to the British Government was not made known.

The Senate, just before the end of the session last night, approved without discussion the bill already passed by the House, which appropriates $13,150,000 to modernize the two battleships. It also provides $12,000,000 for completing the airplane carriers Saratoga and Lexington and $1,000,000 to finish work on the fleet submarine V-4.

Apparently only a few of the Senators present realized that the gun elevation provision was in the bill, which the House passed Monday by a vote of 243 to 111.

Congress passed a measure last session to increase the firing range of 11 battleships, but this was repealed on objections by Secretary Hughes, who negotiated the naval limitation treaty at the Washington arms conference.

THERE is nothing that the most critical housewife demands in a loaf of Bread that she cannot find in

Sunlight Bread

It is made of Pillsbury's Best Flour, Fresh Milk, Pure Honey Lard, Granulated Sugar, Salt and Fleischmann's Yeast.

IF YOU made it yourself, it could not be made of purer, better ingredients. And it is baked under the strictest sanitary conditions by the most modern bakery equipment.

SUNLIGHT BREAD is wholesome and nourishing—compact without soggy—firm without dryness—because of its wealth of rich ingredients.

It is of a convenient size and shape—just the right size and shape for sandwiches, toast or table use. It slices smoothly and does not crumble.

SENATE CONFIRMS WHAM AS FEDERAL JUDGE IN ILLINOIS

Action Taken After Nominee Convinces Subcommittee That He Has No Klan Connections.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—The nomination of Frederick L. Wham of Centralia, Ill., to succeed George Washington English as Federal Judge for the Eastern District of Illinois, was confirmed by the Senate late yesterday.

A favorable report on the nomination was ordered by the Judiciary Committee after a subcommittee had held a brief hearing during the day. The appointment was taken up out of order.

Senator Russell (Dem.) of Louisiana requested the Judiciary Committee to refer the nomination to the subcommittee and hold the hearing, which was in executive session.

Members of the subcommittee said that Wham was called before them for questioning concerning rumors which had come to them that he might have had some connections with the Ku Klux Klan, but they declared that all who heard him were convinced that the rumors were without foundation.

After the hearing, Senator Goff (Rep.) of West Virginia, chairman of the subcommittee, conferred with other members of the entire committee and with their approval requested that the Senate take up the nomination out of order.

RESENT PRINCETON AUTO BAR

Students Demand President Issue Statement of Policy.

NEW YORK, March 2.—Action of Princeton University in prohibiting students' automobiles after the present term has brought to a head the question of student representation in the university's government.

The campus newspaper, the Daily Princetonian, in its issue today calls for a statement of policy from President John Grier Hibben or Dean Christian Gauss, saying, in part: "Some statement seems to be called for from the administration and the trustees as to whether in any case the theory of a college as a democracy would be acceptable.—In other words, whether there is any field of importance in which they will accept the ultimate responsibility of a student-governing body."

Meantime the 2,200 students are without a self-governing body, their senior council having resigned Monday in protest against the trustees' independent bar on automobiles and college discipline is somewhat untamable.

GROCERIES NO ALIMONY CREDIT

Chicago Judge Rules Man Must Pay in Cash.

CHICAGO, March 2.—An armload of supplies from a delicatessen store is not alimony, an court not be credit on payments which may be in arrears Judge Thomas J. Lynch ruled here in a Domestic Relations Court case. Mrs. Lucile Vanerstrom caused her husband to be brought before the Judge when no alimony payments were made. "He says he's bankrupt," she said. "Why he took a delicatessen store in trade on some real estate, and when I went there to get money he gave me an armload of groceries, and told me to credit his account." The Judge ruled against the husband, who said he would attempt to pay up $2,240 he is in arrears.

FRUIT CROP AIDED BY COLD

Two inches of snow fell in most parts of Madison County on March 1, the first day of the first spring month. The temperature being 35 degrees, much of the snow melted within a few hours. Lowered temperatures last night caused the slush to freeze and automobile traffic was hampered.

Farmers and fruit growers declare the return of colder weather has materially aided crops. Many trees were beginning to bud. It was feared they would become so far advanced that a later cold spell would kill all fruit. It has not been damaged, the growers declare.

FOR 24 YEARS ATLAS HAS GROWN UP WITH THE MIDDLE WEST

In building up the wealth and power of our great Middle West Atlas has had a pioneer's part

THIRTY million barrels of Portland cement were used to create new wealth in seven "Corn Belt" states last year—thirty times as much cement as the whole United States turned out thirty years ago.

In bringing about this tremendous growth, the Atlas Portland Cement Company has had an outstanding part.

First, by developing the rotary kiln in 1895. This made manufacture a continuous process, opened the way to produce cement of uniform quality in enormous quantities, and reduced manufacturing cost. Today Portland cement is lower in price than thirty years ago.

Second, by establishing a pioneer cement mill west of the Mississippi at Hannibal, Mo., in 1903; by doubling its capacity in 1905; and by constantly increasing output both at Hannibal and at Independence, Kansas, to meet "Corn Belt" demands. Making only the highest quality Portland cement, these two Atlas plants insure prompt shipments. More Atlas is now produced west of the Mississippi than any other brand.

Third, by direct distribution through the building material dealer, which brings Atlas to the consumer in the most economical manner. The sole distributor between Atlas plants and users, he adds to its economy, makes it easy to buy, and performs a valuable service deserving wide recognition.

Call on him before you build or plan even small repairs. His suggestions will save you money and add value to your property.

TAKE SALTS IF STOMACH ISN'T ACTING RIGHT

Says Indigestion Results from an Excess of Hydrochloric Acid.

Undigested food delayed in the stomach decays, or rather ferments, the same as food left in the open air, says a noted authority. He also tells us that indigestion is caused by Hyperacidity, meaning there is an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach which prevents complete digestion and starts food fermentation. Thus everything eaten sours in the stomach much like garbage sours in a can, forming acid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. Then we feel a heavy, lumpy misery in the chest; we belch up gas, we eructate sour food or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and drink it while it is effervescent, and, furthermore, to continue this for a week. While relief often follows the first dose, it is important to help neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

SLOT MACHINE ISN'T GAMBLING TO JURY

John J. Mill Acquitted When State Fails to Prove Device Illegal.

Failure of the State to convince a jury in Circuit Judge Hogan's court that a slot machine is a gambling device resulted in the acquittal yesterday afternoon of John J. Mill, 2605 Louisiana avenue, charged with having set up a gambling device in a saloon at 3360 South Jefferson avenue in February, 1926.

Defense counsel made no effort to controvert the fact that Mill, acting as an agent for the Central Vending Machine Co., 3124 California avenue, did set up a slot machine in the Jefferson avenue saloon. The defense was based on the contention that the police had given Fred Pollnow, president of the slot machine company, permission to install a similar device, and that the machine Mill installed contained no element of gambling.

Pollnow, under a six months' sentence in jail for having set up a slot machine of the same type as that set up by Mill, testified in behalf of his agent. His testimony that police had passed upon the legality of the machine in question was ruled out, police witnesses having asserted the machine was different from the one declared legal.

Echoes of the slot machine pool operation here last April in which "Jake" Katz of Chicago and Edgar V. Maher, friend of the Pollnows, their lawyer and also Mill's lawyer, figured, were traceable in the trial. Maher argued that the slot machine displayed to the jury as evidence did not operate by chance, asserting that the player got a package of mints for each nickel played and that the machine did not "pay off." The machine had an indicator to tell the player his winnings, but he was required to ask the proprietor of the saloon to pay what the machine indicated. Maher contended the proprietor did not have to pay winnings unless he chose to, therefore theonus was on him, not on the slot machine.

Fred Pollnow and his brother Caesar, are awaiting trial on a second charge of setting up a slot machine. Caesar, already has been acquitted of one such charge.

HIRTH REFUSES TO APPEAR BEFORE NAGEL'S BOARD

Farm Editor Says "Why Encumber You With My Views If Mind Is Made Up."

By the Associated Press. KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 2.—After two days of listening to Missouri and Kansas farmers and farm economists tell their views on the agricultural situation of the corn belt, the business men's commission on agriculture went last night to Dallas, Tex., to continue investigation.

William Hirth, Columbia, Mo., refused to present his views to the committee on the ground that that body already had arrived at conclusions and was seeking only such testimony as might substantiate them. Hirth, chairman of the Corn Belt Committee and publisher of the Missouri Farmer, made his position clear in a letter to Charles Nagel of St. Louis, chairman of the commission. He quoted a newspaper interview by Nagel to the effect that it was clear to the commission that the salvation of the farmer lies in crop diversification rather than legislation.

"If your mind already is made up in these vital premises," Hirth wrote, "why should I, who most emphatically disagree with your conclusions, encumber your records with my unwelcome views?" Concluding his letter the editor said: "There is nothing mysterious about the tragic depression in agriculture. With production costs to the farmer being fixed in the most highly protected market in the world, while the price of his surplus commodities is fixed in the free trade markets of the world, the cause is easily seen. Yet all you have to recommend is education and diversification."

PROTESTANT MINISTERS GIVEN MEXICAN PERMITS

Granted Right to Conduct Services for Six Years; Must Train Natives as Successors.

By the Associated Press. MEXICO CITY, March 2.—Permission has been granted by the Department of Interior to several foreign Protestant ministers to conduct religious services for six years. During this period the clergymen have agreed to instruct native Mexicans who will succeed them. Mexico's religious laws, forbidding foreign clergymen officiating in Mexican churches and requiring native clergymen to register with the authorities, have been in effect since last August. The Mexican Catholic Episcopate, as a protest against the laws, ordered all protests to cease religious services in the churches.

SNOW HIDES FRUIT BLOSSOMS

Georgia and Carolinas Have Heaviest Fall in Many Years.

By the Associated Press. ATLANTA, Ga., March 2.—Fruit trees through the Georgia and South Carolina belt were in full blossom today under a blanket of snow. Fruit growers believed, however, that peach, plum and apricot orchards now in bloom would suffer no material damage. At Spartanburg, S. C., a 10-year record was broken when five inches of snow fell. At Columbia a thin covering of snow formed, and at Greenwood, S. C., the fall was heavier than at any time since 1917. In North Carolina the fall began about daybreak yesterday and continued into the day. At Augusta snow gave way to rain shortly after daybreak. Throughout the belt temperatures ranged from near the freezing point, rising gradually during the day.

Why miss this $3,000,000 extra market in men's wear?

Oklahoma City is the metropolis of its state, with a population of 125,000 people. How much would it be worth to you as a retailer of men's wear if that big extra market could be set right down at your door to draw on for sales?

The total retail purchases of men's wear by a city of that size amounts to more than $3,000,000 annually.

The extra market for men's wear offered you by the excess circulation of the Post-Dispatch in St. Louis is equivalent to that of a metropolis the size of Oklahoma City.

The retail purchases of men's wear made by these 30,000 extra families in Greater St. Louis reached by the daily Post-Dispatch in excess of any other newspaper amounts to over $3,000,000 annually.*

The retail purchases in men's wear made by the 80,000 extra families in Greater St. Louis reached by the Sunday Post-Dispatch in excess of the other newspaper amounts to nearly $9,000,000 annually.

You cannot contact that great big extra market reached by the Post-Dispatch by any other newspaper or combination of newspapers without paying a far higher price to reach it.

No other facts are needed to understand why the Post-Dispatch has such extraordinary selling power for St. Louis retailers. There is another fact, however, of even greater importance—the greater influence of the Post-Dispatch circulation on the buying habits of St. Louis people.

For years, shopping at home—in the family circle—through the pages of the Post-Dispatch has been a fixed habit with St. Louis families, both because evening provides the time to read the store news, and because they know that all the worth-while news of all the worth-while stores is always in the

ECONOMIC SURVEY OF MISSOURI TO BE MADE

Suggestion of Theodore H. Gary for Ford Employment Plan, Adopted by Association.

By the Associated Press. JEFFERSON CITY, March 2.—Accepting a challenge issued in a statement by Theodore Gary, former chairman of the State Highway Commission, the Missouri Association will shortly begin an extensive Statewide survey inquiring into neglected opportunities in this State.

Gary's statement, entitled "Missouri of the Future," declared that Missouri's most clamorous need of today was pleasant and profitable employment of Missourians throughout the year.

"There should be a utilization of idle man power in the towns of from 500 to 1000 population, and in the surrounding communities of Missouri," he said. "Neither in Europe in normal times nor in the densely populated and wealthy parts of the United States does this condition of surplus labor prevail. It is an absolute waste, for idle power—man power or any other kind—is as irrevocably lost as idle time."

Statewide Survey.
Plans for a survey of idle labor in the small towns and agricultural communities as suggested by Gary have been made by the Missouri Association, according to George A. Pickens, general secretary here.

The Statewide industrial survey will include questionnaires to show each community's natural resources, adaptability and its transportation facilities, as well as labor conditions.

Gary in his statement advanced a plan similar to the method used by Henry Ford in utilizing waste man power in Michigan. Small factories, employing from 10 to 100 persons who live within a radius of 10 miles are suggested by Gary for Missouri.

"The workers live at home, tend their own farms, do miscellaneous farm work morning and evening, work eight hours a day in the factory, five days a week, at the prevailing wage paid elsewhere for such labor, and receive in addition all the benefits of their earnings and living conditions at home," Gary asserted. "They live comfortably and healthfully. The factories reduce the cost of production far below those in the great congested centers," he added.

Concerns Every Community.

"Practically all that has been done in Michigan can be done in Missouri," the former chairman of the highway department declared. "Hydro-electric power is a condition, but such factories do not require such great waterpower sites as the report of State Geologist Bucher shows abundant in Missouri. 'Innumerable communities there is tributary waterpower to be converted by means of turbine engines into electricity sufficient to operate small factories and also supply light and power for employees engaged in cultivation of small tracts of land. This obviates the need of work animals that so often 'eat their heads off.' Schedules are so arranged that employees get off during harvesting or other periods of intense activity on their farms."

Answering Gary's challenge, officers of the Missouri Association said they were starting the Statewide industrial survey and expansion program because "they felt that the problems dealt with are of vital concern to every community in the State."

Gary pointed out that the survey should list persons who can work all the time or any portion of their time in small factories. The information should include age, sex, physical education and character of outside work. In cases where only part time is available, Small towns and the surrounding country for a radius of ten miles where the roads are good will be covered in the survey according to The Missouri Association officers.

Favors Small Factories.

In touching on the transportation problem, Gary spoke of the state road system leading into every county of the state, and declared that the state highway system is near enough to completion that counties can start on a system of road development, aside from the activities of the state.

"Some of the small factories can be started at once, where conditions are favorable," Gary said. "They should be in charge of competent men. They should be located under competent direction in light of carefully determined needs. "Without interfering with any of the various agencies that are promoting diversified farming, truck gardening, production of poultry and eggs, dairying and cheese making, livestock interests, development of our vast ore and clay deposits and utilization of our great waterpower sites, such an effort as I suggest can bring an immediate utilization of raw material, power and labor which will be a major factor in Missouri's development."

"Missouri is growing, making and transporting things, but it has not realized its possibilities in any of these directions. It is not only the center of production, population and geography but it is supplied with such means of transportation as should make it the busiest and most prosperous state in the Missouri-Mississippi Valley, which is the richest section of the world."

What Causes Stomach Gas?

INTESTINAL STASIS. say famous specialists, afflicts three people out of every four! That statement might mean little to the average man or woman if it were not for one startling fact. It is this: Recent medical discoveries show that most cases of gas bloating, sour stomach and indigestion are due to just that one cause—Intestinal Stasis.

Intestinal Stasis
IMPROPER food, lack of exercise and other faults of modern life are the cause of this insidious disease. In everyday language Intestinal Stasis means the too slow movement of waste food matter through the intestines or bowels. By staying too long in the body, this matter ferments, gives off gas, hinders digestion and poisons the whole system. Even if the bowels move daily, enough old matter is often left to form gas, causing bloating, gas pains, sleeplessness and nervousness. Ordinary laxatives or soda or magnesia may give temporary relief—but that is all. Intestinal Stasis and Gas can be relieved permanently only by continued, REAL intestinal cleansing.

Stops Gas Quickly
DR. CARL WESCHKE, in his private practice, first used the bowel cleanser and intestinal prophylactic now known as Adlerika. It is a compound of the best saline intestinal evacuant with vegetable buckthorn and cascara, together with glycerine and other gas-expelling and detergent elements. Unlike other medicines, Adlerika acts upon BOTH upper and lower bowel.

The first effect of Adlerika is to relieve gas on the stomach and gas bloating. Often just ONE spoonful brings out a surprising amount of old poisonous waste matter which you never guessed was in your system and which may have been the hidden cause of indigestion, nervous dyspepsia, headache, sleeplessness.

WATCH the bubbles coming to the top of the water along the edges of a pond. They're caused by gas given off by decaying matter at the bottom of the pond. In much the same way, waste food matter in the intestines ferments and gives off gas, causing bloating and indigestion.

Adlerika is not a cure-all. In cases of gastric ulcers or deep-seated organic trouble, a good physician should be consulted. But if your trouble is due to Intestinal Stasis (as many stomach and bowel disorders are), Adlerika gives surprisingly quick relief. Even if your bowels move daily, you'll be surprised at the amount of additional matter Adlerika often brings out—and how much better you'll feel after taking it. Sold by 39,000 druggists.

"I have found Adlerika to be far superior in bowel and stomach trouble. It is the best in my entire 27 years experience."—Dr. G. Egger.

NEVERS IMPRESSES HOWLEY WITH HIS WILLINGNESS TO WORK

SISLER SEEMS SET FOR A BIG YEAR AT FIRST

Shulte Has Already Clinched Center Field Berth With Browns — "Lefty" Stewart Best Bet Among Recruit Pitchers

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TARPON SPRINGS, Fla., March 2.—Several of the younger players in the Browns' camp are attracting special attention as the practice season proceeds. There is young Paul Richards, the infielder and the only player drafted by the club. Richards may turn out to be a sensation. His batting style has been favorably commented on by Dan Howley and Bill Killefer. He appears to handle himself cleverly in the field. He's only 19 and looks like a comer.

When a team invests $100,000 in a player there is naturally a desire to see what return the club may expect on the investment. Fred Shulte, coach of the Browns that sum and in his work here has impressed the observers as being well worth the amount paid. A natural "ball hawk" in the field, he is a power at bat. His definite assignment to the center field berth is merely a question of days.

Which brings up the point that there is only one outfield berth open for 1927. With Shulte in center, right field belongs by right of conquest to Harry Rice. These men will have, it would seem, little or no opposition as long as they stick to their present spot. Left field, however, is another proposition. There are candidates a plenty. Kenneth Williams cannot be dismissed from consideration. Nor can Herschel Benett and Bing Miller.

Williams arrived this morning, as did Frank O'Rourke, infielder. Bennett, because of a big lead in condition, will get the call in the first exhibition. If he gets away to a good start it may be difficult to dislodge him from the position, especially as he is much faster than his competitors. Williams and Miller carry a punch—there is no doubt of that. "Bing" hit .322 in 122 games last year, and while Williams fell off to a mere .250, he led the Browns in "runs batted in," a very important department. When everybody reports, the Browns will have 33 men under players' contracts. According to baseball law they may carry the 23 until June 15, after which they must reduce to 25.

Manager Howley plans to carry five outfielders, six infielders, three catchers and 11 pitchers, so the pruning process will not be very painful. Eight of the squad could be cut off right now. There are several semipro here who hardly can hope to make the grade.

Nevers Impresses Howley. Ernie Nevers has impressed Howley by his willingness to work and his good condition. Howley is quite a football fan himself, and that gives the former Stanford star an edge at the very start. Dan Leis pitchers of the Gaston, Jones, Zachary type train themselves. Vangilder, too, is nearly in that class, though much more lively under the present management.

Ralph Kress, a semipro infielder from the California lads, reported. The new men who are expected to regular positions—Otis Miller and Billy Mullen—have been hard at work to justify the good things written of them and said by their manager. Mullen is not at all the same type of player he was when he had a previous trial with the Browns. He has gained much experience and now is known as a real battling ball player. Miller, regarded as having an excellent chance to assume control of the shortstop job, also is a fighter.

Lefty Stewart Looks Good. Of all the younger pitchers that is, the new ones, Walter Stewart, from Toronto, appears to be the best. He is a southpaw, but his control is uncanny. He may get a chance to work against Buffalo on Tuesday of next week.

George Sisler, former manager, reported yesterday and showed a real battling punch in the practice session. He appears set for a "big year."

MRS. JACK DELANEY AT POINT OF DEATH

Special to the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, March 2.—Her strength ebbing, following an operation for acute intestinal disorder, Mrs. Jack Delaney, wife of the light heavyweight champion boxer, is in a critical condition.

Attended night and day by Dr. Pralick, Mrs. Delaney's resistance dwindles each day, despite stubborn efforts to save her life. It was learned today.

York Five Wins Title.

By the Associated Press. PHILADELPHIA, March 2.—York College, York, Pa., last night defeated Staunton Military Academy, Staunton, Va., 42 to 13, in the final contest of the prep school division of the Chautauque Pennsylvania interscholastic basketball tournament. St. Joseph of Philadelphia, title holders in the high school division, was defeated by West Philadelphia Catholic High School team, 29 to 25.

Wray Brown to Play in Indoor Tennis Tourney

Josties, Kammann and Other Stars Are Entered in District Event.

First lists of players entered in the St. Louis district indoor tennis tournament to be held at Washington University field house beginning Saturday, were announced yesterday. The lists include Wray Brown, Ted Drewes, Fred O. Josties, Karl P. Kammann, Karl Hodge, William Bierman, William Bascom, Joyce Portney, "Hap" Schaberg and Robert Norton.

Among the public park players will be: Forest Park—Joseph Smith, Charles Sigloff, also of the Washington University team; Herbert Weinstein, Murray Cantwell and Adolph Frank. The last named is returning to tournament play for the first time since 1921, when he won the municipal junior championship.

Carondelet Park—Joe Kelly and Henry Holste.

O'Fallon Park—Edward Beckman and William Owens.

Five out-of-town players are entering the tournament. George W. Hutton of Chicago and Fred Connelley of Kansas City, both former college stars, are attending Xenia Theological Seminary here. O'Neil K. Evans has sent an entry from Farmington, Mo., and Walter Klein and Fred Koelling are entered from Granite City.

John Eby, Chester Abbey and Talbot Murphy are among the junior entrants, aside from Bascom and Portney. The juniors are also entering the men's events, and virtually all entrants will play in both singles and doubles. Entries close at 5 p. m. Thursday.

Some of the doubles teams so far announced are Brown and Josties, Drewes and Serrano, Hodge and Bierman, Bascom and Norton, Schaberg and William Klein, Klein and Koelling, Hutton and Connelley, Cantwell and J. Reynolds Medart.

At least seven members of the Washington University team will compete. A total of 60 entries is expected.

TWO ST. LOUISANS RANKED IN FIRST 10 OF NEGRO NET STARS

Special to the Post-Dispatch. NEWARK, N. J., March 2.—Two St. Louisans, Edgar Brown and Richard Hudlin, are ranked in the "first ten" in rankings issued by the American Tennis Association, national Negro tennis body. Brown is placed fourth and Hudlin seventh.

Eyre G. Saitch, New York, winner of the national tournament here last year and winner and finalist in several sectional events, is the No. 1 man. Theodore Thompson, Washington, D. C., is ranked second. Last year Thompson headed the list. John Wilkinson, runner-up in the national, is third. Others are Elwood Downing, Virginia, fifth; Edward Simmons, Ohio, sixth; Kenneth Worde, New Jersey, eighth; John McGriff, Virginia, ninth; and H. A. Kean, Kentucky, tenth. Other St. Louisans ranked are Dr. F. K. Slaughter, fifteenth, and John Taylor, seventeenth.

SHOESTRING CAPTURES PUPPY TRIAL STAKE

Special to the Post-Dispatch. BOWIE, Tex., March 2.—First honors in the Puppy Stake of the Oil Belt Bird Dog Trials yesterday were won by the shoestring shooting, owned and handled by C. S. Proctor of Oklahoma City, Ok. Second place was awarded to a puppy still bearing only the name of Jim and the property of Campbell Sewell of Houston, Tex. Third place went to Frank's Dan, a pointer owned by R. H. Somerville of Hernando, Miss. While fourth was awarded to another Texas dog, Fay Fielding, belonging to Dr. L. M. Cochran of Comanche, Tex.

The field was composed of 22 yearlings and among the lot were at least eight or 10 that are likely to be seen in the later events, for there was an abundance of quality among these youngsters.

The "Old War Hoss" Kicks The Leadville Blacksmith

Fitzsimmons, After Merely Sidestepping 260-Pound Coloradoan for Full Round in Exhibition Bout, Ends It With One Punch.

"RUBY ROBERT," BY ROBERT H. DAVIS. INSTALLMENT XIV.

WE stopped one night in Leadville, Colo., to pick up a few loose dollars. Prior to our show it was announced that any gentleman who volunteered to box Fitzsimmons four rounds at the Town Hall would get $100 for each round, provided he was in the ring at the end of the fourth. Leadville was agog.

Along about three in the afternoon I was in a chair in the window of a local hotel. A gentleman weighing 260 pounds and about six feet four in height stroked in and asked if he could speak to me.

"You're with Fitzsimmons, I understand," he began.

"Well, sir," I replied, "I see he has offered $100 a round tonight for anybody who stays a four rounds."

"Who are you?" I inquired casually.

"Heil! Don't you know me? I'm the Leadville Blacksmith."

I told him to be around about 8 o'clock, that Fitzsimmons would accommodate him.

Little did I know that on that fatal night I was to witness one of the most thrilling episodes in the history of Colorado.

The hall was low and narrow, probably 30 feet wide and 50 feet deep. Temporary benches had been thrown in, and an audience of miners, gamblers, Mexicans and Chinese, with a slight leaning toward the local gentry, piled into the place and filled it to suffocation.

A young male pianist pounded a square piano in violent disorder. The "entertainers" took seats on the stage. Dan Hickey and Fitz did "some fancy," after which the great battle punched the bag, concluding with a walloping that detached the leather from its fastenings and sent it hurtling among the elite.

The Fight in Leadville.

"AND now, gentlemen," said the announcer, "if there be one among you, one who would like to box Mr. Fitzsimmons four rounds, he will receive the sum of $100 for each round he remains in the ring—up to four."

Through the smoke screen at the far end of the hall, I observed the bulk of the smithy emerging from behind the stove. He came not as a lamb but as a lion. He ran down the center aisle to the stage, where he stopped, looking at the piano player, who was bending over his Rubenstein, crushed his face into the keys, and lit on the stage.

He was dressed in a pair of black

Kansas Has a Chance to Win Title, Tonight

Victory Over Missouri Would Give Jayhawkers Cage Championship.

By the Associated Press. LAWRENCE, Kan., March 2.—The basketball championship of the Missouri Valley Conference may be decided tonight with the quints of the Universities of Missouri and Kansas, ancient foes, facing each other in the Jayhawkers court here.

Should Kansas win tonight the triumphant charges of Dr. F. C. "Phog" Allen will tuck away their sixth consecutive basketball title. If they lose they will still have another chance to shove off for the Kansas Aggie here Friday night.

The Jayhawkers went through a hitless practice session last night in a reaction from the tough win over the K. A. C. outfit at Kansas City Monday night which was followed by a long automobile ride to Lawrence.

The Missouri Tigers, smarting under the two defeats in basketball last week that toppled them from the conference leadership will present a grim and slightly crippled front. The Jayhawkers have previously beaten the Tigers decisively this season.

Dr. Allen announced last night that he would start Capt. Schmidt and Gordon at the forward berth, Peterson at center and Burton and Jeffrey at guard.

The Tiger squad is expected to remain in Kansas City until late in the afternoon. It will be the last game of the season for the Tigers and will mark the close of the college athletic careers of Capt. Ted O'Sullivan and Carl Bacchus, both of unusual prowess in football as well as basketball.

The game will be broadcast over KFKU, the University of Kansas radio station, at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

Hockey Players Deny That Game Was "Sloughed"

Reports Say Big Bets Were Made on Game New York Won From Ottawa.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, March 2.—Three professional hockey teams, the Ottawa Senators and New York Americans in the National League and the Boston Tigers in the Canadian-American Circuit, were busy today with explanations of charges that beset the clubs.

Promptly sweeping denials greeted reports that a league contest Saturday night between Ottawa and Americans was "sloughed" to New York in order that the Americans might more easily gain the annual play-off series. The Americans won 3 to 2 after 16 seconds of overtime.

The Boston Tigers, returning to Boston from a contest in Quebec, were minus 20 bottles of whiskey that Customs officials at Richmond, Vt., found in their luggage. Fines were placed on the players to the amount of $5 a bottle in addition to confiscation of the contraband.

The players were allowed to proceed when a porter in the train, although denying knowledge of the liquor, paid a fine of $25 for 65 other bottles of whiskey found wrapped in pillowcases behind a partition in the Tigers' private car.

No Direct Charges. Reports of the "sloughing" of the Ottawa-Americans game were accompanied by tales of large bets, offered at surprising odds, that the Americans would win the contest despite the record of the league-leading Senators. The Americans are now fourth in the International section standing.

No direct charge that the game was not a fair contest has been made to President Frank Calder of the league, he said at Montreal. He said that betting on the results of games was absolutely forbidden, among players and officials, and that "if any club has any information which would lead us to believe any game was not decided on its merits, the proper thing to do would be to lay a formal complaint."

Hockey officials here and in Ottawa alike branded the "fixing" reports as unworthy of refutation. Thomas R. Gorman, secretary of the Americans, said the story was ridiculous. Alex Smith, manager of the Senators, called it "pure bunk." Other members of the Ottawa squad offered their record of seven defeats in 35 games as ample reply to charges. All contended they had never wagered a cent on any game.

MIKE SANSONE WINS FROM McDERMOTT IN SAN ANTONIO BOUT

Mike Sansone, leading St. Louis bantamweight boxer, scored a point verdict over Jimmy McDermott at San Antonio last night, according to telegraphic advice received this morning by Harry Cook, Sansone's manager. Sansone is said to have won seven out of 10 rounds. He accepted the bout on short notice, substituting for "Kid" Carlin of New Orleans.

Two Prep League Basketball Contests to Take Place Today. Christian Brothers High, in second place in the Preparatory League, is scheduled to meet McBride tonight on the Christian Brothers floor at 8 o'clock.

In another conference contest Chamblaine will play Country Day in the latter's gymnasium at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Whalen has filed his entry for next week's tourney, however, and club officials are trying to obtain a suitable opponent for him.

Cooney, Brave Southpaw, on Shelf With a Fractured Arm

Summa Expected to Replace Speaker as Regular Center Fielder With Indians—Pirate Hurlers Ready for Opening Practice Game.

By the Associated Press. BOSTON, Mass., March 2.—John Cooney, southpaw pitcher, is the Braves' first casualty of the season. Just before starting South, he had an X-ray taken of an injured arm. Pictures arriving at the St. Petersburg, Fla., camp show a clear break in a small bone near the elbow. Cooney wanted to pack his grip for home, but Manager Bancroft instead persuaded him to stay at camp.

Summa to Replace Speaker. At the camp has been scrutinizing the work of the pitchers, making mental notes of faults and good points alike and laying the cards on the table before George Moriarty, new 1927 manager.

Owen Carroll and an outfielder named Holland from Toronto joined the squad yesterday.

One Workout for Reds. By the Associated Press. CINCINNATI, March 2.—"Charley horses" and aching backs resulted in orders for a "witch hazel" session with George Gerken, late of the Cincinnati Reds today, where Manager Jack Hendricks decreed that the third day of practice would be a "rest day."

Casualties from stiff muscles and sunburn were the only ones reported, however, since the pitching staff has had two good workouts and Joe Tinker, former manager of the Cubs, asserted that either Ford or Pittinger at shortstop looked good.

Walter Christensen arrived at camp last night and the expected appearance of Curt Walker tomorrow winds up the late arrivals.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, March 2.—Chasing cattle over Texas ranges apparently has agreed with Tris Speaker, former Cleveland manager, and now a Washington Senator outfielder.

Getting into diamond livery for the first time yesterday at the Tampa (Fla.) training camp, the gray-haired veteran announced he would need only four or five days work to get in tip-top shape. He said he never felt better in his life.

Two more players, McNeely and Leifield, during the first two days.

A twisted leg tendon will probably keep "Bullet Joe" Bush, veteran speed baller, from strenuous practice for several weeks. He received the injury during the early workouts.

Leifield Takes Over Hurlers.

By the Associated Press. DETROIT, March 2.—"Lefty" Leifield, veteran mound star, has taken personal charge of the flock of young pitchers trying for berths with the Detroit Tigers at the training camp in San Antonio, Tex.

Leifield, during the first two days

St. Louis U. High In Critical Game At Alton Today

Defeat Would Drop League Quintet From First Place

By the Associated Press. ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 2.—St. Louis University High school football team today, Christian Brothers' temporary at least, its lead in the preparatory league.

Last night Christian Brothers' High, by virtue of a field goal by Capt. Ruane in the last minute of play, defeated McBride, 15 to 0, and boosted its status to first place in the league.

On form the Billikens should have easy sailing. However, recent defeat by Christian Brothers and the fact that they are playing on a "switch hazel" field, the day's game starts at 3 o'clock.

Another prep league game last night resulted in a 27 to 14 win for Chamblaine over Country Day.

There was a break in the perfect weather today, a cold breeze causing Manager O'Farrell to call for the morning practice, scheduled one for noon in the hope the rain would improve conditions by evening.

Jimmy Ring, pitcher, who was obtained with Frisch in the trade sent Rogers Hornsby to the Cardinals, arrived with Frisch. Hornsby, a New York City native, was one of his children delayed him. Only four Cardinals rated as regular last year are missing now. They are Flint Rhem, pitcher; Tommy Thevenow, shortstop; Taylor Douthit and Chick Hafey, outfielders. The Giants, despite their way from the Pacific coast, Rhem and Thevenow are oldouts.

Players Are Confident. Manager Bob O'Farrell now has four players who were in the Cardinals in 1926. They are Frisch, Ring, Hank Snyder and Billy Southworth.

With a week of training behind, the battery men, the Cardinals are beginning to take start of their season change for the coming campaign and the men feel more confident than they did last spring, when they began a season that was the first time in 28 years.

Chief cause for the confidence is the feeling that the year's experience was extremely valuable to the men in Cardinal uniforms. Then there is a feeling that the catching staff is stronger with Snyder ready to share the duties with O'Farrell.

Another reason for the confidence is the belief that the race will not be as open an affair as it was in 1926. The Cardinals, despite their acquisition of the great slugger, Hornsby, will be weak in the outfield through the loss of Ross Young, the Cardinals believe. Frank Vanderhill brought word from San Antonio that the Giants star was gravely ill, and not expected to play any more baseball.

Pirates Not as Strong. The Pittsburghers are not considered as strong as contenders for the title because of the apparent collapse of the pitching staff, the weakness at second base and the reports that Glenn Wright's health is not too good.

Cincinnati, not taken seriously last year, again is not a contender. The Reds would have been on the pennant last year, had it not been for injuries to pitchers Steve in the race, but the Cardinals point out that a combination of good breaks, including a hitting strength from unexpected quarters, was responsible for the Reds being in the race in the first place.

The Cardinals do not expect Jack Leifield's club to do as much hitting or have as good pitching as in 1926.

Having eliminated the three chief rivals of 1926, all the Cardinals have to do now is count the Cubs out of the race and then go ahead and beat out the New York, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and Chicago teams. Considering that the St. Louis team barely did nose out the Reds and that the Pirates also were close on their heels, it really is confidence that O'Farrell's men have when they are so cocksure, that they are going to fly another pennant at Sportsman's Park.

It's Getting Monotonous. Five days of practice remain before the Cardinals will have a chance to test their skill and condition in a contest. Next Tuesday the first exhibition game will be played with the Florida University team furnishing the opposition.

O'Farrell and his men will be when the date of the exhibition games arrive, as it is becoming monotonous to go through the training routine without a competitive feature to inspire the men.

played in the first game against the league opposition.

The Cardinals hope that Tommy Thevenow appears in time to participate in the exhibition games, as Cardinals will not look like a team if the little shortstop is not in the lineup.

TO WORK

St. Louis U. High In Critical Game At Alton Today

Defeat Would Drop Local Quintet From Prep League Lead.

Upon the performance of the St. Louis University High quintet at Alton this afternoon against Western Military Academy depends, temporarily at least, its lead in the preparatory league.

Last night Christian Brothers' High, by virtue of a field goal by Capt. Ruane in the last minute of play, defeated McBride, 15 to 14, and boosted its status to eighth place, while St. Louis U. High has won seven and lost one. If the Billikens lose to Western today, Christian Brothers will jump into first place by half a game.

On form the Billikens should have easy sailing. However, the recent defeat by Christian Brothers and the fact that they are playing on a foreign court may have something to do with the outcome. In the first half of the season Coach Stanton's men beat every squad in the circuit, including Western. Today's game starts at 3 o'clock.

Another prep league game last night resulted in a 27 to 14 victory for Chamaine over Country Day.

DATE CHANGED FOR MUNY SOCCER PLAYOFF

Managers of the Brant and Killarney, municipal soccer teams, which tied in their first round game last Sunday, met at noon today and decided to play off the tie Saturday afternoon at Fairground No. 2, starting at 4:30 o'clock.

Previously Thursday had been named for the playoff but most of the Brant players were unable to get away from work on this day.

Cullopp, outfielder, have reported for practice after long journey from the West. McNeely, center, from Sacramento and Cullop from Madison, S. D.

Players Are Confident.

Manager Bob O'Farrell now has his players who are in the uniforms of the New York Giants last night. They are Frisch, Ring, Snyder and Billy Southworth.

With a week of training behind, the battery men, the Cardinals are beginning to take stock of their chances for the coming season and the men feel more confident than they did last spring when they began a season that was to see St. Louis in a world series for the first time in 28 years.

Chief cause for the confidence is the feeling that the year's experience was extremely valuable to the team in Cardinal uniforms. Then there is a feeling that the catching staff is stronger, with Snyder ready to share the duties with O'Farrell.

Another reason for the confidence is the belief that the race without be as open an affair as it was in 1926. The Cardinals, despite their acquisition of the great slugger, Hornsby, will be weak in the field through the loss of Ross Young and the Cardinals believe, Frank Snyder brought word from San Antonio that the Giant star was grateful to him, and not expected to play any more baseball.

Pirates Not as Strong.

The Pittsburghers are not considered as strong a contender as in 1926 because of the apparent collapse of the pitching staff, the weakness at second base and the reports that Glenn Wright's health is not too good.

Winn, not taken seriously last year again is put aside as a long shot. The Reds would have won the pennant last year, had it not been for injuries to pitchers in the race, but the Cardinals point out that a combination of these breaks, including hitting chances from unexpected quarters, was responsible for the Reds being in the race in the first place. The Cardinals do not expect Jack Hendrick's club to do as much hitting or have as good pitching as in 1926.

Having eliminated the three chief rivals of 1926, all the Cardinals have to do now is count on the Cubs out of the race and then ahead and beat out the New York, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and Chicago teams. Considering that the St. Louis team barely did nose out the Reds and that the Pirates also were close on their heels, it really is confidence that O'Farrell's men have when they are so cocky, that they are going to fly again, pennant at Sportsman's park.

It's Getting Monotonous.

Five days of practice remain before the Cardinals will have a chance to test their skill and confidence in a contest. Next Tuesday, the first exhibition game will be played with the Florida University team, furnishing the opposition.

O'Farrell and his men will be glad when the dates of the exhibition games arrive, as it is becoming monotonous to go through the routine without a competitive feature to inspire the men.

Wednesday the Braves will play in the first game against the league opposition.

The Cardinals hope that Tommy McNeely appears in time to participate in the exhibition games, as Cardinals will not look like a team if the little shortstop is missing.

FRISCH WILL GET INTO WORK FOR FIRST TIME

Second Sacker Obtained From Giants in Hornsby Trade Says He Needs Little Work — Players Confident of Another Victory.

By J. Roy Stockton, of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

AVON PARK, Fla., March 2.—Frank Francis Frisch, the Fordham coach, the man who chases into left, center and right field and transforms potential Texas League stars into pop fly putouts, will put on a Cardinal uniform this afternoon and go through his first work as a member of the world champions.

Frisch, regarded by some experts as one of the greatest defensive players in the game, arrived yesterday, trim and healthy after a winter of hunting and skating at Lake Placid, New York. He is near normal weight and said that all he needed was a little exercise to develop his "wind."

There was a break in the perfect weather today, a cold breeze blowing from the north, but it did not mar the morning practice, scheduled for one hour in the hope the weather would improve conditions by the time the game started.

Jimmy Ring, pitcher, who was obtained with Frisch in the trade that sent Rogers Hornsby to the Giants, arrived with Frisch, illness of the Cardinals delaying his trip.

Only four Cardinals rated as regulars last year are missing now. They are Clint Hume, pitcher; Tommy Thoenes, shortstop; and Taylor Douthett and Chick Hafey, outfielders. The two fly chasers are in their way from the Pacific coast. Hume and Thoenes are expected.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Pay and the Athlete.

BABE RUTH'S salary expectations for the current season have been paid sums that in times gone by would have left the fan gasping and unbelieving.

Celebrities in baseball, pugilism, tennis, golf and racing have been paid sums that in times gone by would have left the fan gasping and unbelieving.

Twenty years ago one would have been put in a straight-jacket for reporting that a baseball player had demanded $100,000 and might get it; that a single could profit $100,000 on a horse race; that a golf professional could make $50,000 a year; that a woman tennis player could earn $50,000 in three months; and that a fighter could realize $50,000 on a bout of 30 minutes' duration.

The performance of none of these, in itself, would be worth the hire; but because enough interested persons can be found to view the performances, the reward is justified. The proof is that the promoters can pay the demands and make big money besides.

It isn't Babe's slugging alone that justifies the salary; it's the number of persons willing to pay to see him perform that counts.

Made Dempsey Famous.

OTTO FLOTO, widely known in sporting circles, is reported near death.

It was about 12 years ago that we first heard the same report about Floato and for the same cause—diabetes. Then along came insulin and Floato, who frequently was described in sotto voce as "attending his last fight," has survived to see all the championships of recent years.

It was long after Floato first disappointed the morbid by refusing to pass out that he made Jack Dempsey famous. That was early in 1918, when Willard was hiding behind his dignity and the color line, at a time three years had not defended his title.

"Who Is Jack Dempsey?"

It was suggested that the sporting chronicler of the country describe the opponent was worthy to meet the title holder. The writer obtained a symposium of opinion from 20 sport writers. Floato, then with a Kansas City publication, among them.

Opinions varied. Fulton Moran and others being named for the task. One lone writer named Jack Dempsey. The writer was Otto Floato. Dempsey's name then was unknown save to a few on the Pacific Coast. But, answering the query, "Who Is Jack Dempsey?" Floato wrote:

"Dempsey WILL BE THE NEXT WORLD'S CHAMPION. I will send him to see you in a few weeks. Look him over. Then watch his snore."

Floato's mysterious Mr. Dempsey made good within two months. The next year he did win the world's title. And Floato, his virtual discoverer, declined to die without having seen his prediction fulfilled.

Floato was in Philadelphia and sat through the rain to see Dempsey's sun set.

"He'll come back," Floato predicted then.

comrades, and all the boys realize that it would be hard to replace him and a blow to the cardinal chances if the infield were broken up by his loss.

Frisch Works at Second.

In today's infield practice Bottomley will be at first, Frisch at second, Flowers at short and Lester Bell at third.

The two workouts a day have not made a big hit with the players. Work starts at about 10 o'clock and ends shortly after 11 in the morning. Then practice is resumed about 1 o'clock and continues until 2:30 or later. Most of the boys stay at the park, a light lunch being sent out from the hotel.

When the exhibition schedule starts, the program will be changed and there will be only one workout, starting two hours before game time. This will give the younger players a chance to get in plenty of work and get the veterans warmed up for the contest.

CAPABLANCA HELD TO DRAW IN CHESS TOURNAMENT BY DANE

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 2.—Setting a new course record of 77 on the difficult St. Augustine links, Miss Virginia Van Wie, Chicago, the defending champion, was medalist in the qualifier of the women's Florida East Coast championships here yesterday. She was out in 29 and came back in 35, her game teeming with brilliant efforts. Miss Van Wie won the 1926 tournament by defeating Miss Glenna Cloutier.

Shooting an 81, Miss Maureen O'Connell, Englewood, N. J., metropolitan and eastern champion, was runner-up. She was out in an astounding 28, the men's par for the layout, but failed in coming in when she began to press for a record score.

Wray to Report Sharkey - McTigue Elimination Bout

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., March 2.—High school and junior college basketball teams of Missouri will play for their respective State championships here Friday and Saturday, March 18 and 19, C. L. Brewer, University of Missouri athletic director, announced yesterday.

Both tournaments will be held at the university, the high school tournament under the auspices of the Missouri State High School Athletic Association, and the junior college tournament under the auspices of the university athletic department. For the first time St. Louis schools will be represented.

The junior college tournament is being inaugurated as an annual event and it will also draw representation from St. Louis. Principia Academy having already entered the event. Other teams entered to date include Kansas City Junior College, St. Joseph Junior College, Jefferson College of Albany, Kemper Military School and Wentworth Military Academy.

The high school elimination tournaments will begin this week, with the State Teachers' College at Warrensburg staging the first one. The others will be held next week at the Missouri School of Mines and at St. Louis and Kansas City.

Trophies in both tournaments are furnished by the university, and the university also furnishes rooms for players and coaches while the teams are in Columbia. Play in both tournaments includes a championship and a consolation round, so that no team is eliminated until it has played two games.

H. V. Millard, Deatur, Ill., will head the staff of officials which will work the tournament games.

Wentworth Triumphs.

BOONVILLE, Mo., March 2.—The Wentworth basketball team defeated Kemper Military School in a Missouri State Conference basketball game here last night, 24 to 14. Jack Kemper was leading, 12 to 9.

HOPPE DEFEATS JAPANESE STAR IN FIRST MATCH OF 18.2 TOURNEY

HOREMANS AND FELIX GRANGE MEET TONIGHT

Frenchman's Parched Throat May Beat Him— Matsuyama Runs 129, Hoppe's Best 115.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 2.—Willie Hoppe, world's 18.2 balkline champion, has opened the championship tournament here with a victory, but he was given quite a scare by the youthful Kinsey Matsuyama of Japan.

The opening match in the 12-day tournament was won by Hoppe last night, but it took the stellar cueist 19 innings to round out the 450 billiards while the Japanese was checking up 358. The champion, with an average of 21.1-19 to Matsuyama's 20.6-19, bowed to his opponent for high run honors, getting but 115 in the eighth inning to 129 for the Japanese in the sixteenth.

Two matches were scheduled for today and tonight, with Matsuyama meeting Walker Cochran of the United States in the afternoon contest, and Edouard Horemans of Belgium crossing cues with Europe's champion, Felix Grange of France, in the night match.

"Common red wine of France," (vin rouge ordinaire) as American doughboys were wont to call it, or rather the lack of it, is the only thing that stands between Grange, Europe's premier billiardist, and the world's championship. So he says.

After an hour's practice yesterday, he threw away his cue in disgust.

"How can anyone play billiards on ice water?" he asked. "It simply freezes me all over."

He added that he had played in Biskara, on the northern edge of the Sahara desert some years ago, but the "Sahara was wet compared to Washington."

The Frenchman is the extreme outsider for the title at odds of 30 to 1.

Hoppe Cracking, Peterson Says

In a telegram to the Post-Dispatch today, Charles C. Peterson, local billiard expert, declares that, after watching Willie Hoppe in action last night in his balkline match against Matsuyama, the Japanese, at Washington, he is convinced the once unbeatable wizard of the cue is slipping.

"Hoppe's play last night clearly shows he is gradually breaking," said Peterson's message, "and he is not the player he was. He seems to be under a terrible strain, playing wrong shots and fiddling with a regularity."

BREAKING THE RECORD

The world's record for high jump, running start, has held since 1914; over the bar at 6 feet 8 1/2 inches.

Not once but 20 times — to a record!

Plenty of cigarettes — like athletes — can hang up single records now and then. But how many can repeat — clear the bar time after time without a miss?

Piedmont has ranked among the five best sellers for twenty consecutive years — the only brand in history to do it. An amazing demonstration of the untiring taste for straight Virginia tobacco!

Note. With the sole exception of our celebrated Richmond Straight Cut, Piedmont is the only "Virginia tobacco" cigarette enjoying a national sale.

U. S. LEADS WORLD IN AIR, CHIEF DECLARES

The American people have one... wide-spread "inferiority complex"...
to the effect that this nation trails...
the world in the development of... commercial aviation, declared William P. MacCracken Jr., assistant...
Secretary of Commerce for Aeronautics, at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon today.

MacCracken urged that the air...
mail be used as much as possible...
arguing that they were an important and established part of the national transportation system. He... pointed out that postal receipts for... air mail had increased 75 per cent...
in the last year, and declared that... the next two years would see all...
hooked up with dependable air lines.

Children's Night Coughs Stopped Almost Instantly

Children very frequently have spells of night coughing due to bronchial irritations or while suffering from colds. These coughing spells, if not quickly checked, are very injurious to the child's health, to say nothing of the annoyance to others. A famous physician's prescription called Thosine, much better than potent medicines and cough syrups acts on a different principle, relieves the irritation and stops the cough in a few minutes. In fact it is guaranteed to stop night coughs or sore throat within 15 minutes of money back. Contains no chloroform, dopes or other harmful drugs, pleasant taste and safe. 35c, 60c and $1.00. At all druggists.

Do You Lack Strength?

—Star Studio.

"Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and Pleasant Pellets proved so helpful to me that I am glad to say a good word for them. I suffered from many discomforts, had no appetite, ached all over, had no strength to work, and was constipated. I have used most all kinds of medicine a person could think of, but none ever did me any good. At last a friend told me about Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and I gave it a trial. The relief given could not have been more satisfactory. I will gladly recommend Dr. Pierce's medicine to all I know."—Mrs. Edith Smith, Route 4, Box 93, Leavenworth, Kan.

INDIGESTION SPELLS AND DIZZINESS

Taking Black-Draught in Time Is Found Good Way to Head Off Such Troubles by Alabama Citizen.

Portersville, Ala.—"About fifty years ago," says Mr. Lewis G. O'Shields, of this place, "my mother gave me the first dose of Black Draught, and I have taken it ever since, when I needed a medicine for constipation. I have used this remedy all my married life, in raising my children."

"I have used Black-Draught frequently for heartburn, as I have had spells of this kind, off and on, for years. This follows indigestion, and indigestion comes close on constipation."

"I have found that the best way to head off trouble is to begin taking Black-Draught in time. It relieves me of dizziness, tightness in the chest and backache."

"By getting rid of impurities, Black-Draught helps to keep the system in good order. I always keep it in a home, and have recommended it to many people, in my time. I always say a good word for a good medicine."

By the use of Thedford's Black-Draught thousands of men and women have, like Mr. O'Shields, got rid of impurities in their systems and kept themselves in good health. Give it a trial. Get a package of Black-Draught today, at the drug store. Price 25 cents.

LENTEN SEASON OPENS WITH SPECIAL SERVICES

All Catholic and Many Protestant Churches Are Observing Ash Wednesday.

The principal Catholic observance was at the Old Cathedral, Third and Walnut streets, where Archbishop Glennon delivered a sermon at noonday mass. Noonday mass was held at the Old Cathedral and at the Annunciation Church, Sixth and La Salle streets, throughout Lent. The Rev. Joseph P. Fagan is preaching at the Annunciation Church this week. Archbishop Glennon will preach a Lenten sermon at the St. Louis Cathedral, Lindell boulevard and Newstead avenue, at 11 a. m. Sunday. The Lenten Sunday night sermons there will be by the Rev. E. C. McCarthy, S. J. Lenten services also will be held at the cathedral and Catholic churches generally on Wednesdays and Fridays.

In Protestant Churches.

At Christ Church Cathedral (Episcopal), Thirteenth and Locust streets, Ash Wednesday services were held this morning and at noon, and will be repeated at 8 o'clock tonight.

At the Episcopal Church of the Ascension, Clats and Goodfellow avenues, services were held this morning. At the 8 o'clock service tonight there will be a sermon by the Rev. John S. Bunting, rector. A children's service will be held at 4 p. m. Friday.

The Episcopal Church of the Holy Communion, Washington boulevard and Leffingwell avenue, will have a service at 8 o'clock tonight, in addition to morning service. During Lent Deaconess Alice Nutter will conduct a class for women on Thursday at 1 p. m.

Sermon Topics.

"The Meaning of Lent" will be discussed tonight by the Rev. Ivan Lee Holt at St. John's Methodist Church, Kingshighway and Washington boulevard.

Lenten services will be conducted at St. Mark's English Lutheran Church, Clayton road near Skinner road, by Dr. Clarence E. Gardner, Wednesday nights.

"Why Some People Are Lost" will be the sermon subject of the Rev. George Wales, King at 7 o'clock tonight at Markham Memorial Church, 1614 Menard street.

MILLIONAIRE'S ART REJECTED

Three Paintings Turned Down, One Under Pseudonym Accepted.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, March 2.—The name of Edward Burgess Butler, retired millionaire merchant and a trustee of the Art Institute, failed to prevent rejection of three of his paintings by judges in the Chicago artists' exhibition. It became known today following revelation that one landscape he entered under a pseudonym won recognition.

Butler, who claimed the $400 paid for the canvas "And Then It Rained," by identifying himself as the mysterious "Karl Ruble," under whose name it was entered and accepted, has departed for California to paint more landscapes. The $400 was given to the Butler scholarship fund for struggling young artists.

ALIBI DEFENSE OF 'BEAR WOMAN'

By the Associated Press.

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, March 2.—Miss Nellie Bates, known as the "Black Bear" of the Alaska gold camps for 25 years, set out today to prove an alibi in her trial in Federal Court here on charges of robbing a mail sled of $33,000 in gold in 1922.

Miss Bates sought to show she was working her claim in the Iditarod district in September 1924, at the time when she is alleged by the Government to have met William Schermeyer, an accomplice, and divided the loot. Schermeyer, who was the Government's chief witness, and who was indicted in connection with the case, confessed and implicated Miss Bates.

Ford Libel Trial Postponed.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., March 2.—Trial of the $1,000,000 libel suit of Aaron Sapiro, Chicago attorney and agricultural organizer, against Henry Ford and the Dearborn Independent, has been postponed until March 15. Opening of the trial had been scheduled for next Monday. The postponement was at the request of Senator James M. Reed of Missouri, chief of defense counsel. Judge M. Raymond also ordered redefining of the 200-page plea of defense attorneys after an attack upon it by counsel for Sapiro.

Bank of Louisville, Mo., Closed.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 2.—The Bank of Louisville, in Dallas County, with total resources of $25,601, has been closed by its board of directors. The State Finance Department was notified here today, and C. L. Bollinger, a State Bank Examiner, was placed in charge. It was the fifth State bank closing since the first of the year. Deposits were $25,195. N. E. Gammon is president and J. L. Bates, cashier.

HANDICAPPED BOYS ENTERTAIN

Deaf Band and Blind Basketball Team at Jacksonville, Ill.

JACKSONVILLE, Ill., March 2.—A deaf band, a blind basketball team and a sightless orchestra, all from State institutions centered here, provide Jacksonville with a big share of its recreation.

The band boys, none of them able to hear a note, are guided by vibrations, but listeners find no deficiency in their music. The basketball players cannot see except to distinguish light objects from dark, but they win repeatedly from teams with normal vision. Members of the orchestra never have seen a sheet of music nor the conductor's baton, but they pound out dance music like a veteran jazz coterie.

MEDITATIONS —OF A— MARRIED WOMAN By HELEN ROWLAND

UNRIPENED MARRIAGES.

Never, in the history of the western world, were there so many youthful marriages, callow romances, and infantile elopements as there are today.

"Life," for a girl, used to begin with her first real grown-up love-affair. Now, it begins in her bassinets.

As soon as a baby girl cuts her four front teeth, she wants a bite of the forbidden apple—and by the time she is tall enough to reach the ink-bottle she is writing her "memoirs."

The first word she says is "Gimme!" The second is "Lemme!"—and the third is "Let's get married!"

At seventeen, she is standing with unreluctant feet, where wedlock and matrimony meet. At eighteen, she is a sophisticated woman of the world; at 20, she is getting blasé; and at 25 she is beginning to feel positively senile.

The wedding-ring isn't carried to the altar on a white satin heart any more; it is carried in the baby-carriage along with the rattle.

A modern girl cuts her eye-teeth on her wedding-ring, and uses her divorce certificates for curl-papers.

You send your little 9-year-old to the corner for a pound of animal crackers and a bar of chocolate—and behold, she comes back with a box of rouge, a copy of "Flaming Youth," and a whole new set of ideas on self-expression and sex-appeal.

Most of these youthful marriages don't last until the installment man gets around, and scarcely one holds out until the trousseau is worn out.

But what can you expect of a marriage based on half-baked emotions and unripened minds, except a bad case of sentimental indigestion?

Little green hearts cannot know what love is!

Life and love and experience, like all things else, must ripen slowly and naturally to be sweet and rich and satisfying—and to have the genuine flavor.

The tragedy of the so-called "younger generation" is that it is never YOUNG! It does not take time to be young—it is so afraid it will miss something!

It does not take the time for the "long, long thoughts of youths," the time to dream about life, to build air castles, and grow ambitions, and find a few sweet, high, heart-filling aspirations!

But these youthful marriages are not cute or clever or amusing—and those who play with the divine fire always get burned fingers, and come out singed, charred, or scorched for life!

Peter Rabbit Finds Striped Chipmunk

—Old Mother Nature.

PETER RABBIT was tired of winter. Yes, sir, Peter was tired of winter. "Winter is nice," said he to little Mrs. Peter, "but no matter how nice a thing is, it isn't nice when there is too much of it. I want Sweet Mistress Spring to come and I want her to come soon. Oh dear, I wish I could find some sign that she is on her way."

Late that afternoon Peter ran over to the Old Orchard. You will remember that the Old Orchard Wall runs along one side of the Old Orchard and that along both sides of that Old Orchard Wall grow bushes and young trees. In the summer time they make a wonderful hiding place for the birds. Peter is very fond of the Old Orchard Wall. There isn't any place outside the dear Old Briar-patch where Peter feels quite so safe as he does there.

Peter had taken a chance in going over there in broad daylight, but he had looked this way and that way and had seen when the way was clear. When he reached the Old Orchard Wall he breathed a sigh of relief. Then, after resting a bit, he thopped along in the bushes on one side of the wall. He was still thinking of how tired he was of winter when his long ears caught the sound of tomtoms on the snow crust. The sound seemed to come from back of a big stone of the Old Wall. Very carefully Peter peeped around that stone. Who do you think he found? It was Striped Chipmunk.

Yes, sir, it was Striped Chipmunk. Striped Chipmunk looked as saucy and pert and quite like himself as if it were midsummer. Peter was delighted. He forgot that Striped Chipmunk didn't know that he was there, and he started to scramble over the wall. Striped Chipmunk disappeared like a jack-in-a-box. Peter waited. He waited and waited and waited. At last his patience was rewarded. Very cautiously Striped Chipmunk poked his head up. When he saw Peter he became indignant. He fairly bounced out from between the stones of the Old Orchard Wall.

"What do you mean, Peter Rabbit, by trying to scare me to death?" he demanded.

"I didn't try to scare you at all," replied Peter Rabbit. "I didn't try to scare you at all."

"You did, too!" retorted Striped Chipmunk.

"I didn't either!" retorted Peter, beginning to get cross in his turn. "I didn't try to scare you at all."

"What do you mean, Peter Rabbit, by trying to scare me to death?" he demanded.

What do you want to be so scary for, anyway?"

Now, to have heard them, you never would have guessed that it was weeks since they had seen each other. They were quarreling just like a couple of folks who see each other every day.

"What business have you over here, anyway?" snapped Striped Chipmunk.

"What business have you out in the middle of winter?" demanded Peter.

"It isn't the middle of winter," declared Striped Chipmunk. "It is Spring. Anyway, it is almost Spring."

"Huh!" exclaimed Peter. "I don't see any sign of Spring."

"You see me, don't you?" retorted Striped Chipmunk.

"Yes, I see you," replied Peter. "But you're no sign of Spring. I've seen you in the winter before."

"Well," replied Striped Chipmunk. "I may not have been a sign of spring then, but I am now."

"What do you mean, Peter Rabbit, by trying to scare me to death?" he demanded.

"I didn't try to scare you at all," replied Peter Rabbit. "I didn't try to scare you at all."

"You did, too!" retorted Striped Chipmunk.

Abe Martin—On the Public

The public's just like a walrus.

A FORD coupe contains six or seven rounders, boys an' flappers, plowed through a crowd of school children yesterday. Killin' three, an' then ran int' th' show window of th' Monarch Five & Ten. Public indignation run purty high for a time, but it soon died out an' th' community went back to sleep. I don't believe there's nothin' as short lived as public indignation, unless it is public interest. Jest think of th' great public movements, reforms, an' investigations that have started with a big blare of trumpets an' then faded out. We were goin' to get back to normalcy, but ever'thin's higher than ever, an' still gittin' higher. We've had great public movements for cheaper gas, cheaper telephones, an' lower taxes, but th' interest soon lags an' ever'thin' goes up. If glarin' headlights are responsible for a couple of deaths there's a spasmodic flurry 'till about once ever' two or three years th' public conscience is awakened, an' then it only turns over. It's had enough for a train dispatcher 't' fall asleep occasionally, but fer th' public to lay around unconscious while th' community is at th' mercy of bandits, an' politicians, an' utility companies is th' limit. A chuck hole seems 't' arouse th' public quicker'n a barbecue murder, or a utility merger. It seems 't' be full of fight when th' question of good streets an' roads comes up. But grafters an' murderers an' plunderers no longer fear an aroused an' outraged public fer th' public is jest like a walrus, 'cept fer th' eye teeth—it grunts an' wiggles when disturbed, but it hain't got gumption enough 't' fight. Tell Binkley pulled a purty good one th' other day jest after our two light beige an' her dress, an' he said, "I don't know what's gittin' int' th' public. I don't think it's crazy, I think it jest don't care a damn."

The Digestibility of Egg Sauces

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D.

Former President of the American Medical Association.

A CORRESPONDENT writes me as follows:

"I find that some sauces agree with me and others do not. This bothers me a lot, not only because my digestion is often upset, but because I like all sauces. I am often told that egg sauces, such as mayonnaise, hollandaise and tartar sauce, are not wholesome. Will you please write an article and explain about them?"

Egg sauces, properly made and properly consumed, are among the most digestible and nutritious of foods for normal stomachs. If you can't eat them as they ought to be eaten, that is as sauces and not as major articles of diet, there is something materially wrong with your digestion for which you ought to consult your physician.

Now let me explain why egg sauces are really wholesome.

Under a microscope a suspension of egg-yolk in water is a multitude of very small irregular particles moving among one another. They do this according to a natural law known as Brown's Law. When the suspension is warmed to 140 degrees F. the particles grow larger and become more nearly round but are still mobile. At 160 degrees they begin to appear a number of larger but less mobile particles that are stuck to one another. This is shown to the naked eye by a certain new blandness and thickness in the liquid. This consistency is the object of the thickening process. The application of any further heat will cook the yolk and the sauce will be "turned" when it really becomes less palatable and largely indigestible.

These are the physical stages undergone by any gravy or soup when it is heated with the yolk of an egg. It is easy to see that the process takes away from its digestibility.

It is true that the gastric juice can and does digest the albuminoid portion. But it can do nothing with the other substances called lecithins, which form a considerable part of the yolk.

This comparatively simple method, I find on consulting the authorities, is not the one in most general use. The commonest methods of thickening with egg-yolk are much more complicated, and consequently the results are much less digestible. All these sauces are really mixtures, called emulsions, all of which are suspensions of small particles of fat in a watery medium. The two outstanding examples are hollandaise and mayonnaise.

In making the familiar hollandaise sauce the yolks are thinned down with a little water, and butter is added bit by bit in a saucepan. It is possible to emulsify two pounds of butter with eight yolks and the result is a consistent but fairly fluid cream. When hollandaise sauce is flavored with shallots, a very mild species of onion, it is called "bearnaise."

Under the microscope hollandaise sauce shows the egg yolk is taken up on the surface of the globules of butter, which grow smaller and smaller and more and more numerous, and in the end it is so finely divided as no longer to be visible. It has a purely physical action—diminishing what the scientists call the surface tension of the fat globules and allowing them to split up. The volume of butter ingested in this form presents itself to the stomach with the maximum possible surface, since it is not subject to gastric digestion, as fat is only dissolved by the juices which appear in the bowel. The sauce therefore tends to remain there, causing more trouble than if its effective area were less.

The acidity of the gastric secretion has no effect on it, as sauce hollandaise will keep its microscopical structure for two hours in a solution of hydrochloric acid—the acid of the gastric juice—at body temperature.

Everything that has been said about hollandaise sauce applies equally well to mayonnaise, which is a mass of oil very finely split up by being mixed cold with yolk of egg, which has no effect except that it lowers the surface tension of the particles. Similarly tartar sauce is an emulsion made with hard-boiled yolk and the famous remoulade of the French is made from it by adding mustard.

These fine-spun theories, really based upon facts, do not by any means impeach these sauces as wholesome articles of a normal diet for normal people. They fall utterly to take into account the counterbalancing influence of stimulation of the stomach and of digestive function due to zest of appetite imparted by these same sauces.

So I go on eating the sauces and enjoying my meals in abundant good health.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis.

BECAUSE OF STORM.

BECAUSE of storm the tree is bent, grown twisted and awry, its outline is grotesque, uncouth against the tender sky. The great winds fiercely beat and gnawed the sapling long ago until this tortured shape the tree was forced to grow. Of beauty which it might have owned, of burning woodland grace, the cruel seas have left it now perhaps a fitful trace; perhaps a passing glimpse, no more, of all it might have been; now, gnarled and warped, it brings men pain to see its twisted green. Because of storm its grace is lost, no eye would linger there, but roaming through the hillside grove, seek branches straight and fair. And yet, because of storm, came strength to flood each branch with power; more firmly stand the twisted tree for every storm-wracked hour.

What the Ultra-Fashionable Are Wearing in New York

By Belle Brummel.

NEW YORK.

THE Dog Show, like the Horse Show, demands that the smartly dressed woman wear clothes "pour le sport." At the Madison Square Garden the sport dress and felt hat with a top coat of fur or tweed were closely seconded by tweed suits, with a top coat often carried carelessly over the arm. Nothing else seemed to belong. Low heeled shoes of calf, lizard or suede and English woolen stockings were much favored.

One particularly good-looking outfit was of hunter's green, the dress a two-piece model, and the hat wide brimmed. Over this was worn a suede cardigan of brown and a dark brown fur coat. The wearer was carrying a pert French bull, who looked too thrilled for words at all the excitement, and especially at his smart collar and leash of hunter's green with brass trimmings. By the way, was it our imagination or were the little Cockerspaniels looking askance at the many broadtail coats seen there?

Pausing a moment in the Metropolitan Museum last week, we met Miss Lotus Robb, now playing so charmingly in "The Constant Nymph," attired in a tailored suit of black worsted.

A blouse of white pique was worn with the suit. We liked the simple single-breasted coat, and the tiny chiffon felt hat Miss Robb wore so becomingly. Flung over her arm was a huge pointed fur scarf.

We caught a glimpse of Lady Japp at tea-time wearing a dress of Chanel red and beige in a Vionnet geometrical design. Her hat was crocheted straw of the same light beige as her dress, and she kept on her dark fur coat.

A frock of heavy white crepe, George de la Senne was worn by Mrs. Charles Scribner at the Plum Blossom Ball given at Sherry's recently. A geometric design outlined in pearls, scalloped hem and shallow décolletage were features of the gown.

Mrs. Whitney Warren, in the brilliant audience at "La Bohème," was wearing an effective dress of black velvet and flesh-colored chiffon, a combination very much favored. The chiffon fashioned the upper part of the bodice, which was cut very décolleté in the back and in the front, and was caught with rhinestone trimming.

No costume for April showers is smarter than the one worn by Miss Harriet Camac. Scarlet is the color of the simple but smartly cut crepe de chine, rubberized rain coat. With this Miss Camac wears a Reboux scarlet felt hat and consistently carries out the color scheme by repeating the same shade of red in her frock and umbrella.

At the Plum Blossom ball at Sherry's one of the prettiest debutantes of the year, Elizabeth Wyatt, was prouetting like a white puff-ball, wearing the fluffiest of white tulle ballet skirt, and a tight white satin bodice. Sparkling earrings showed beneath her yellow hair. An entirely different white costume was worn by Nancy Trowbridge in the clothes revue. A white kasha coat made very short, with a white fox collar, a white felt hat with a rhinestone pin in the front, white shoes and stockings, all looked ready for tea at Palm Beach, but not for New York in February.

Mrs. Henry Anderson Goman was sketched by us as she dashed down the platform on Sunday morning bound for the Orange Blossom Express and Palm Beach. Mrs. Goman's wrap of black suede cloth, collared by chinilla, revealed a Chane blue velvet frock, as she stepped on the train.

Rebecca test matches her lizard skin bag with lizard skin shoes and her green felt hat with green beads. Her dress is green and beige and her coat brown fur.

The Diary of a New Father

WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

WELL, Joan found something else to worry about today, she almost forgot about the baby. She had been so busy with the physical wreck on their hands and feet, so when I came home she had some orange juice with liver oil in it and she was trying to feed it to him.

The baby can't sit up—he lies backward, but babies just don't sit up when they aren't quite ready. So he had to be fed lying down, because Joan had a spoon in one hand and a spoon in the other, and she couldn't hold him, and she said I needn't try to hold him for her, because I would only get in her way.

The baby didn't get the idea of the spoon and he wouldn't open his mouth, so Joan had to pry it open with the spoon and the orange juice, and she had to be careful not to get another $2 wasted, besides what she paid for that particular baby bottle.

I said, "You are too ambitious. How do you expect the baby to sit up, sucking his thumb and leaning to the side of a spoon all in the same week?" And Joan said, "I'm not bothering about his thumb today. After the howl he raised last night, I don't care to go through it again, right away," and she offered me baby another spoonful of orange juice and he opened his mouth and he himself and she poured it in, he had only opened his mouth to cry and he choked, and Joan had to take him up and pat him.

Joan said, "Good heavens, a baby is more trouble than a farm," and said, "Gosh, they're cute, though, aren't they?" and Joan said, "Yes, they're cute," and I said, "Weren't he sweet when he has a little brother and a sister or two to play with?" and Joan said, "Don't you just have the most wonderful ideas?"

The Diary of a New Father

WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

WELL, Joan found something else to worry about today, so she almost forgot about the baby sucking his thumb all the time. One of her baby books said if a baby wasn't fed codliver oil and orange juice his parents might as well look forward to having a physical wreck on their hands forever, so when I came home Joan had some orange juice with codliver oil in it and she was trying to feed it to him.

The baby can't sit up—he isn't backward, but babies just don't sit up when they aren't quite 14 weeks old—so he had to be fed lying down, because Joan had a cup in one hand and a spoon in the other, and she couldn't hold him, and she said I needn't try to hold him for her, because I would only get in her way.

The baby didn't get the idea of the spoon and he wouldn't open his mouth, so Joan had to pry it open with the spoon and the orange juice and codliver oil ran out and spoiled the dress he had on, and there was another $2 wasted, besides what we paid for that particular baby book.

I said, "You are too ambitious. How do you expect the baby to stop sucking his thumb and learn to eat out of a spoon all in the same week?" And Joan said, "I'm not bothering about his thumb today. ### End the Bluff.

It's the last fortress of con- vention, the English Prayer book. It is about to change its mar- riage service. Eliminating the bride's promise to "obey," the English Bishops, it seems, will take the modern woman's demands that she be husband's equal, not his slave or his child. For no time in the history of the school, that is so far as the oldest inhabitant can recall, has there been any attempt made to have the ceremony conform to a certain subject or nationality. The students responded unusually well and, as a result, there was quite a flock of boots, homemade and otherwise, embroidered blouses a la Bakst, and long, gold-tipped cigarettes.

Russian Countesses in plumes, common peasants in aprons, exalted Generals with fuzzy caps, and lowly soldiers with no caps at all. Queens with crowns, maids with flowers and Dukas with ribbons all cavorted together without a thought of any class distinction. Thus did "would-be" Russians celebrate in a most un-Russian manner. And there was color, color, color that mocked pen and ink.

Barrie christened "the love-pound look." He had to do as her husband said. There was nothing else for her to do—she wanted to eat. She changed all that! The bride of today who promises to "obey" most certainly lies, whether she believes it or not. She can be an adult woman, or normal intelligence, health, education and independence. She can lead her entire life following the orders of one man—her husband. If he is the man she marries and loves? A modern woman is so mindless, so spineless!

She may vow to "obey," but she simply can't keep her word. And so it comes about that obey is the joker of the marriage ceremony.

HELL half a pound of green peas. Melt a generous tablespoon of butter in a saucepan, add the peas. Keep the flame low, cover and stir frequently. Dice two slices of bacon finely, crisp slightly in another saucepan, add the peas, season with salt, pepper and a dash of sugar. Cover and let finish cooking together.

Peel three or four of the smallest new potatoes to be found in the market or cut balls from larger new potatoes. Sauté in salad oil until brown. Sprinkle with chopped parsley and salt and serve.

A quick onion soup may be made by cooking a minced onion in a tablespoon of butter until tender but not brown. Stir in a teaspoon of flour and a cup of thin cream or milk. Heat and serve with a sprinkling of grated Parmesan cheese.

Mushroom soup may be made in the same way, paring and cutting the mushrooms, omitting the cheese.

Cook tips of asparagus until tender, drain and serve with a tablespoon of butter melted with a teaspoon of lemon juice.

Slow enough cabbage for a generous serving. Heat a cup of milk, remove from the fire and stir into it an egg well beaten and a tablespoon of butter. Heat slowly, stirring until custardy. Add one-fourth cup vinegar and salt and pepper for seasoning. Stir in the cabbage while hot and serve.

Learning to Read

By Angelo Patri

Angelo Patri is just the principal of a New York grade school, but the late Charles W. Eliot, president of Harvard, said Patri is doing more for common-school education than any other person in America. This school, a model in every respect, is a mecca for teachers from all parts of the country.

NO WE don't teach children the alphabet any more. Not until they are able to read. Then we teach it so the children can learn to write. They can read without knowing the name of each letter. They learn them by and by, of course, but they don't learn to read by the letters. Not at all. The teacher who started work with a story and had the children read it before they knew a letter or a word was, to my way of thinking, quite all right.

You learn to do a thing by doing it, don't you? You could read about driving a car all the days of your life. You could recite about it and you could even pass a written examination upon the subject but until you mounted the wheel and made the car obey your will, you couldn't drive a car. Reading is just like that. The way to learn to read is to read.

I know a little girl who learned to read by hearing the Mother Goose rhymes read over and over and following them on the page by the pictures and the big words. The picture of Simple Simon with his mother's pail brought the whole rhyme and by and by the pudgy little finger traced the lines as the child chanted the verses and one day she found the word Simon and after that she had the secret of reading and read the whole book by herself. And she was three years old.

No, we don't teach the alphabet any more. We teach the whole story and after you get that you can find the words you know and after you have placed them well you can pick out the sounds of letters and after that you can make words by yourself. And then you can name the letters. It's a much better way. You can read much faster. You won't be stopping to spell out words. Your eyes will take in whole lines, and by and by when you are expert, whole paragraphs. And the fast readers in the universities are the best readers. They are not supposed to be fast in school, just quick.

When you read to a child be sure to allow him a share of the reading. Let him hold a side of the book; let him tell the story of the pictures; let him say the phrases that are repeated in The House That Jack Built so that he will get into the habit of doing his part. He is to be led into reading for himself without ever being told he is reading.

All education is based on reading. Once a child can read well he can carry himself through school with very little help. Provided he reads well. That means that he has gathered the meaning that lies in the words. Word calling may sound like reading but it isn't. A child can read every word correctly and yet not be reading and he can make mistakes and read very well. It is good reading.

Another article by Mr. Patri will appear tomorrow.

Careless Washing Spoils Children's Hair

Any child can have beautiful hair—healthy and lustrous. It is simply a matter of shampooing. Proper shampooing makes the hair soft and silky. It brings out all the life and lustre, all the natural wave and color, and leaves it fresh looking, glossy and bright. While children's hair must have frequent and regular washing to keep it beautiful, fine young hair and tender scalps cannot stand the harsh effect of ordinary soap. The free alkali in ordinary soaps soon dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

That is why thoughtful mothers everywhere now use Multifid Coconut Oil Shampoo. This clear, pure and entirely greaseless product brings out all the real beauty of the hair and cannot possibly injure it. Two or three teaspoonfuls is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather which cleanses thoroughly and rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust and dirt. It leaves the hair soft and easy to manage and makes it fairly sparkle with new life, gloss and lustre. You can get Multifid Coconut Oil Shampoo at any drug store. A four-ounce bottle lasts for months.

Little Fish Dishes

By Jeannette Norton

LITTLE fish dishes are very good to use as an entree or for the fish course. The little dishes are made of course, and do not take as much material as is required for a full fish platter. We are advised by dieticians to serve fish on other days as well as Friday, by the Government to eat more fish, and by economists to eat fish to save on our butcher bills.

Salmon Cutlets.

A pound of fresh salmon poached, skin and bone removed and flaked, or a large can of salmon, skin and bones removed, and flaked, may be used. To the prepared salmon add a beaten egg, half a cupful of dry crumbs, the juice of an onion, a teaspoonful each of minced parsley pepper, and light green celery leaves. Pepper, salt, and enough cream sauce to moisten the mass. Shape into cutlets and when cold dip in beaten egg, roll in dry crumbs, and fry in hot fat. Drain and serve garnished with lemon quarters and parsley. Serve tartar sauce if used as an entree, or cream sauce if used as a fish course.

Finnan-Haddie Hamkings.

A large finnan-haddie, baked for breakfast will yield at least a cupful and a half of flaked fish for the ramekins when cold and the bones are all removed. Add to the fish a quarter cupful of crumbs, moisten with cream sauce, add salt sparingly, pepper, the stiffly beaten whites of an egg folded in and a tablespoonful of capers. Fill buttered ramekins lightly with the mixture and bake 10 to 12 minutes in a brisk oven. Use as a fish entree.

For More Informal Frocks.

PARIS.—The place of wash silks for informal daytime dresses will be taken this spring by light taffetas. Paris predicts in its spring showings. Sport and morning frocks and taffetas, some of them as simple as the gingham house-dresses beloved by American housewives, are shown by most of the designers. Coats of silk or lightweight woolen materials, usually in the darkest shade of the taffetas, are worn over the dresses. They are lined with the taffetas.

Cheese Fondue.

CHEESE fondue is a tasty main dish for the winter's dinner. Mix one cup scalded milk, one tablespoon butter, one cup stale bread crumbs, one-half teaspoon salt and one-fourth pound American cheese cut in small pieces; add the well beaten yolks of three eggs. Whip and fold in the beaten whites and turn into buttered baking dish. Bake 20 minutes in moderate oven.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

Death strikes Garrett Folsom while swimming at Ocean Town, N. J. It is thought at first that he is a stroke victim, but investigation shows he has been stabbed to death under the water.

Folsom's swimming companions were Roger Neville, a business partner; Mrs. Helen Barnaby and Carmelita Valdon. Folsom, just before his death, had been standing next to Ned Barron, known as the copper king.

Anastasia Folsom, eccentric and masterful sister of the dead man, arrives and takes command. At the inquest it is learned that the death weapon was a pichon, an Oriental knife, and it had been bought on the boardwalk.

It is also learned that one Croydon Sears, who was in Barron's party, is a fan of curious knives. Anastasia engages Titus Riggs, an architect, to work on the case. Dan Pelton, the dead man's nephew, arrives, and is intrigued by the curious French dolls in Folsom's room.

He believes his uncle had been blackmailing several people and he and Riggs discover suspicious documents in Folsom's effects. Anastasia tells Riggs to go ahead; she is not afraid of her brother's name being sullied by a full investigation.

CHAPTER 23.

"STOP at nothing," commanded Anastasia. "Tell any and all who care to know the full details of Garrett Folsom's life, show him up entirely, and you will be pleased with the result. I haven't lived with that man half a century for nothing. He was as incapable of conscious wrongdoing as I am myself. And I assure you I would do an injustice to no one."

"I believe you implicitly, Miss Folsom, but I want to warn you once more, that you may be mistaken. That, blinded by love for your brother, you have misread some signs or indications, and that, in his love for you, he may have kept from you some details of his life that must have distressed you."

"You make him out worse with every word you utter. If you are working for me, Mr. Riggs, you are working at my orders, and those are for you to go on the lines I lay down for you and no others. Will you do this?"

"I will," said Titus Riggs, gravely. "Now that I have carefully warned you of the calamities you invite."

"They are my calamities. I will meet them should they come. First, then, Mr. Riggs, you will investigate such cases as you can get further details about from that notebook."

"There are many definite dates and names of places, Miss Folsom. Shall I go right through the list?"

"By all means."

"Hold on, auntie," said Dan Pelton. "You may get yourself involved in libel suits and all sorts of horrible things."

"For heaven's sake, Dan, remember that I ordered you to keep out of this. You have no regard for your uncle's good name, no care for his unjust arraignment, but at least you may keep quiet and let me go my own way."

"As if I could stop you!"

Pelton gazed at his formidable relative with something of admiration.

"And here's another thing," the lady went on. "As I came in you mentioned the name of Croydon Sears. Is he in your precious book?"

"The initials C. R. S. occur a few times," Riggs told her.

"Very well. That's Mr. Sears. And, of course, he is the murderer. Don't you remember he was at the auction where that knife was sold?"

"But he didn't buy it!"

"We don't know that he didn't. He's the man, I tell you."

"Then you must admit that Folsom had such a stranglehold on him that Sears went to the length of murder to be free from him!" exclaimed Pelton.

"Shut up!" said his aunt. "Oh, Dan, do go away! Go and bathe or something; I can't stand another minute of you!"

"Now Mr. Riggs," his employer continued, "will you get busy on Croydon Sears at once?"

"I will, Miss Folsom, but I must work in my own way. You've laid down laws which I will obey. Now must make stipulations, which you must regard. You are not to take any active or open part in this investigation. Are the regular detectives, as you call them, making headway?"

"barked! Go to it, Mr. Riggs. Do your darndest!"

Titus Riggs was always amused at the sudden lapses from dignified diction to less formal phrases, and walked smilingly away.

For the first time she regarded them with interest, and, as she gazed at them, her interest increased.

"My heavens and earth!" she ejaculated. "That one is the very image of Jeanie Frew! Poor little Jeanie! Garry wasn't very good to her. But bless his heart, he couldn't be tangled up with a seismographer. I wonder if he bought that doll because it looks so like Jeanie!"

"And that one," she went on, communing with herself, "is Kitty Leigh to the life! I believe the boy did buy these puppets when they looked like the girls he admired. For that blonde one is enough like May Farmer to be made for her. Yes, and this is like Loo Bailey—though not so much so. Well Garry dear, you were always a boy! How well I remember you as a baby. Fond of dolls even then."

Her loving eyes saw only an innocent exhibition of romance—but was romance that had represented to Folsom's mind the number and quality of his conquests.

He had had many and various sorts of "romances" and when he could find a doll which looked like one of his favorites, past or present, he bought it. And this occurred more often than one might think likely, and there were at least a dozen dolls in his collection, though not all here present.

And then Miss Folsom had another thought. A gruesome one. Was it possible her brother had had any unpleasantness or upset with any of the girls he had known, and that such a one had killed him?

But it seemed to her too preposterous—she knew so little of that sort of thing, Garrett had been her idol and the sole human interest in her life.

The only love she had ever given had been to him; the only jealousy she had suffered had been of him.

So she knew naught of any other varieties or degrees of love or jealousy, and the thought of a girl murderer was vague indeed.

She ranged the dolls on a sofa, in a straight line, all sitting in prim, decorous positions, which spectacle sent Myrtle, the chambermaid, off in peals of laughter the next time she entered the room.

Not all were recognized by Miss Folsom, but at least six she was sure of, two pretty confident, and the others reminded her of no one she knew.

Titus Riggs went from the presence of his employer, as he amusedly called Miss Folsom, and sought the society of Robin Sears. He found him idle, and proposed a stroll on the boardwalk, which Robin accepted gleefully.

"Dunno," Robin said. "She's getting sort of elusive."

"Had a mad?"

"No, nothing of the sort. But Madeline is wacky. They want to go home, at least Maddy does, and what she wants Ange! generally wants, too."

"And Barron?"

"He's all for staying down. Says the weather is perfect and the kids is doing fine, and there's no place where there are more diversions and wetter water and roller chairs and no mosquitoes, and he just wants to stay. So, whatever Madeline wanted or however much she craved it, she'd give in to old Ned."

"So they're staying on?"

"For another week or two. My old man loves it. Too. Dad is in his element down here. He loves the water, and even more, he loves to potter about the shops."

"Oh, I don't mean the catch-penny ones. He never bothers with cheap stuff. But you know the boardwalk has displays in some instances that are among the best ever."

"Yes, I know it. Robin, have you dropped out of your detective coil laboration?"

"Are you still at that?" He looked his surprise. "Why I thought it was past history. The inquest."

"Oh, the inquest isn't the be-all and end-all of a murder case."

"What can I do to help?"

"Nothing, if you ask in that lackadaisical way."

"Now there's a word I've always enjoyed. Don't know how to spell it, but I just adore that word."

(To Be Continued.)

Riggs thinks Robin Sears would be well satisfied if the investigation were dropped. Is he trying to shield his father, Croydon Sears?

The Greatest Story in the World

And when the fowls came down upon the offering of carcasses, Abram drove them away. And when the sun was going down, a deep sleep fell upon Abram; and, lo, an horror of great darkness fell upon him.

And the Lord said unto Abram, Thy seed shall be a stranger in a land that is not theirs, and shall serve them; and they shall afflict them four hundred years; and afterward they shall come out with great substance.

The Bible in Pictures

And behold a smoking furnace and a burning lamp that passed between those pieces. In the same day, the Lord made a covenant with Abram, saying, Unto thy seed have I given this land, from the river of Egypt unto the great river, the river Euphrates: The Kenites, the Kenizzites and the Kabbizites, the Hittites, the Perizzites, and the Rephaim, the Amorites, the Canaanites, the Girgashites and the Jebusites.

AUCTION BRIDGE AS PLAYED BY EXPERTS

STATION KSD entertained Bridge enthusiasts yesterday with an interesting and instructive game in which Mr. Work and Mr. Whitehead were paired against two of America's best players, R. R. Richards of Detroit, who is prominent in all Auction Bridge councils, and one of the star players of the United States, and Carl T. Robertson of Cleveland.

These were their hands:

Mr. Robertson, dealer, in the "South" position: Spades, K, Q, 4; Hearts, J, 8, 6; Diamonds, K, 3, 2; Clubs, A, K, 5.

Mr. Work, "West": Spades, 10, 8, 5, 3; Hearts, Q, 10, 9; Diamonds, 9, 7; Clubs, Q, 10, 6, 2.

Mr. Richards, "North": Spades, A, 9, 7; Hearts, A, K, 7, 5, 3; Diamonds, A, 8, 6; Clubs, 3, 2.

Mr. Whitehead, "East": Spades, J, 6, 2; Hearts, 2; Diamonds, Q, J, 10, 5, 4; Clubs, J, 7, 5, 3.

Mr. Robertson, with every suit stopped, and an ideal suit distribution for no-trump of 4-3-3-3, bid one no-trump.

Mr. Richards bid two hearts. Although he held good assistance for his partner's no-trump, he had a danger spot in his two small clubs.

Mr. Whitehead, with a weak in clubs also, and that the opponents could run five or six club tricks against them at no-trump. Therefore Mr. Richards took the opportunity to show his strong five-card heart suit, not as a denial of his partner's no-trump, but rather with the thought that game is more probable with a major suit as trump, when that is the best bid of two partners' hands, than at no-trump.

In discussing this bid Mr. Work said: "Between a major suit and no-trump, both sound original bids, the major suit offers, as a rule, the better chance for game. Also one, and frequently several tricks more, can usually be made at the best suit bid between the two hands, than at no-trump. Thus, Mr. Richards' takeout was based, first, upon the greater probability of game with his major suit the trump; and, second, if game is assured either in hearts or no-trump, upon the greater trick-taking probability with a suit as trump."

After Mr. Richards' bid, all passed. Mr. Robertson was well satisfied to play the hand at hearts.

Mr. Whitehead led the queen of diamonds, the top of his three-diamond suit. This allowed his partner, Mr. Work, to lead the five of diamonds with the jack and either the 10 or 9 of diamonds, with at least four cards in the suit, since the blind opening lead of a queen, declares this holding. That is, when he holds four cards or more of a suit, headed by the queen-jack-ten or the queen-jack-nine, the queen is the proper card to lead.

Dummy was spread and the declarer, Mr. Richards, sized up his prospects. He saw only two possible losers—one club, and perhaps the queen of hearts, in case the trumps were unevenly divided against him. He hoped, however, for a small slam.

He could win the first trick in either his own hand or Dummy's, but as there was a possibility that Mr. Work might be blank in diamonds and would ruff the first trick, Mr. Richards did not risk losing Dummy's king. He played the 2 of diamonds from Dummy.

Mr. Work played the 3; Declarer, the ace.

With nine trumps in his two hands, Mr. Richards decided to play for an even break. This is the usual procedure among experienced players. As Mr. Work said, in discussing the play of this hand: "With nine trumps, as a rule the finesse should not be taken. With one less trump, and with the 10 in either of Declarer's hands, a finesse would have been in order, but even with only eight, without the 10, to try the finesse would have been futile."

Superfluous Hair

By LUCREZIA BORI

WHAT to do about superfluous hair is a question that is bothering thousands of women. The answers are many and varied.

Most women are seeking to remove superfluous hair permanently and for this electrolysis, the method whereby the roots are killed with an electric needle, is the safest, most satisfactory as far as results are concerned, and the most expensive of the various treatments.

Before submitting to this method it is wise to have one's physician recommend a reliable electrolysis specialist for the electric needle in incompetent hands is a mighty dangerous instrument.

Shaving, while widely and safely done by women, is in no way a permanent remedy as the hair comes right back. Usually it comes in thicker and coarser, necessitating more frequent use of the razor as time goes on.

All powder depilatories are merely chemical shaves; removing the hair at the surface of the skin. The one point in their favor in preference to the razor, is that the hair does not come back thicker and coarser. To use them water must be added to the depilatory powder which is messy and quite odorous as well as all of them contain some sort of sulphide. Sometimes these depilatories fail to remove the hair satisfactorily due to too much mixing.

Wax depilatories remove the hair by the roots so that the growth is longer in making its appearance, and while the growth often decreases, sometimes a complete remedy, the wax is removed.

There is a new cream depilatory that is just making its mark to the public and which promises to be very successful. There are several different brands on the market, and while they effect exactly the same results as powder depilatories, they are easier to handle. They have a firm strength and consistency can't split, and having a cream base, they are bland non-irritating to the average skin.

Slice tomatoes, sprinkle flour, salt and pepper and sauté.

NANCY HANKS, MOTHER OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN, THOUGH NOT WELL EDUCATED, TAUGHT HER CHILDREN ALL SHE KNEW AT HER KNEES THEY HEARD ALL THE BIBLE LORE, FAIRY TALES AND COUNTRY LEGENDS THAT SHE HAD BEEN ABLE TO GATHER IN HER POOR LIFE.

IT WAS AT THAT DAY THE SCHOOLS IN THE COUNTRY DISTRICTS OF THE WEST DEPEND ON THE COMING OF SOME POOR BUT AMBITIOUS YOUNG MAN WILLING TO TEACH THE "A. B. C. SCHOOLS" AS LINCOLN CALLED THEM LATER. WHILE HE WAITED FOR A BETTER JOB, ABRAHAM LINCOLN, LIKE ALL THE CHILDREN OF THE PLACE, ATTENDED SCHOOL WHENEVER IT WAS IN SESSION.

THE BOY ABRAHAM WAS UNUSUALLY BRIGHT AND MADE GOOD PROGRESS IN HIS STUDIES. HE WORKED HARD OVER HIS LESSONS, OFTEN READING AT NIGHT BY FIRELIGHT.

The Cardinals are going to have two pennant poles, one for the National League and one for the world series. Be sure and have them made long enough, Sam; there are more coming.

Now, the question is: will the Browns and Cards use the same pennant pole? It would be rather embarrassing for the Browns to win a pennant and have no place to put it.

However, as the Browns own the park and the Cardinals own the pole, we think the matter can be accommodated to the satisfaction of all concerned.

YEAGER, FIGHTING FOR LIFE, DENIES HE KILLED SCHOU

Swears Companion He Thought Was Bernie Shelton Forced Him Into Saloon Holdup.

INDICATES FRIEND FIRED FATAL SHOT

Judge Orders Jury to Return Verdict Either of Guilty of First Degree Murder or Acquittal.

Arguments were made this afternoon to the jury in the trial of Leonard Yeager, for the murder of George Schou in a holdup Nov. 17 last. By Judge Pearce's instructions, the jury must find Yeager guilty of first degree murder or acquit him. It may not convict him of a lesser degree of murder.

Yeager this morning testified for an hour and 20 minutes in an effort to save himself not from conviction, but from the death penalty. In first-degree murder convictions, the jury decides between life imprisonment and capital punishment. A verdict by tonight is possible.

Judge Pearce instructed the jury, as to conspiracy, that persons engaging in a conspiracy to commit a felony (in this case robbery) are all equally guilty of any murder committed in carrying out the conspiracy.

Admits Part in Holdup. Yeager admitted taking part in the holdup of Swedish-American Hall bar and restaurant, 1137 South Kingshighway, on the night of Nov. 17 last, when Schou, an elderly tailor, was fatally shot for getting in the way of the robbers. He denied firing the shot, and said he took part in the robbery only because his companion, Maurice Birmingham, compelled him to do so under threats of death. His story was intended to indicate that Birmingham shot Schou.

Birmingham, whom Yeager says he supposed at the time to be Bernie Shelton, one of the East Side Shelton gang, is to be tried later for the murder of Schou, and the death penalty also will be asked in his case.

Identified by Witnesses. Three witnesses have identified Yeager as having gone after Schou at Birmingham's command, having returned after the shot, with a smoking revolver, and having threatened to kill one of the witnesses, a bartender. Yeager denied parts of their testimony, including the threat against the bartender. Yeager said he is 23 years old, was reared on a farm near Clame, Ill., and that his schooling went only through the fourth grade. He has lived in East St. Louis since 1919, and said he had worked for five years, up to the time of his arrest, at the Armour packing plant, where he became a foreman, with 26 or more men under him.

"Sunday night, Nov. 14," he testified, "I was in Birmingham at Jack Prentice's house, 411 North Fifth street, East St. Louis. He didn't tell me who he was. I saw him the two days following, and Wednesday evening, the 17th, he was with Prentice and his wife, and the wife's sister, whom they called Betty."

"I wanted to get away from him, and after a time I said I was going to take Billy home. 'No,' Birmingham said, 'you're going with me, and he held his gun on me. So Billy went on home, and I went with him in his Chrysler car. Told Him He Was Shelton.

"I saw that he had two revolvers, and he took a sawed-off shotgun in the car, too, though Prentice objected. I had no gun—had never carried one. Going over told of driving over the Free Bridge," he gave me a nickel-plated revolver.

"A Cadillac car passed us, and he said, 'You know who I am? I'm Bernie Shelton, and that's one of the Burger gang's cars. They're after me.'"

"He drove to a recreation parlor and asked for a man he called Walter, but they said he hadn't come in. Then he pointed to the cashier's cage and said to me, 'You get get that fellow in the cage, and I'll hold the others back.' I said, 'You can't get me into any cage like that—it ain't my game.' "He drove to a home-brew joint, and we both had some drinks. I thought we were going back to the East Side. But he went to a saloon at Kingshighway and Manhattan (Swedish-American Hall), and said we would get some more drinks. We went in, and he shook
